Town Election this Saturday - get out and vote

Polls open from 8:00 a.m. - 8:00 p.m.

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - This Saturday's election brings only one contested race. The question remains, is it enough of a contest to entice voters to the polls? With a superior 60 percent turn out for the election of Scott Brown in January, the Wilmington electorate proves it can impact elections, but last year's annual town election brought out only 693 voters - a paltry 4 percent.

"Please come out and vote," said Town Clerk Sharon George.

Incumbents Michael Newhouse, current Board of Selectmen chair, and Lou Cimaglia face challengers Daniel Murphy and five-time candidate Mark Nelson. Murphy and Nelson have not campaigned heavily this season; Nelson did not appear at the debate last week (see Debate Story) and neither has put out campaign signs and the usual complement of candidate paraphernalia.

Newhouse and Cimaglia have touted their experience and accomplishments over the past few years, both support the proposed feasibility study for the high school as a positive step in the overall process of studying the capital needs in education. Nelson, conversely, believes that with the budget crisis in today's world, a feasibility study would be bad timing.

The School Committee, with three seats, will welcome back current Chair Margaret

"Peggy" Kane along with newcomers Kathleen Carroll and Robert Hayes. The biggest item on the School Department agenda is the passage of Article 10, a feasibility study for Wilmington High School, which will assess the current structure, program, and enrollment projections to determine whether to renovate, add-on, or build a new high school with the financial assistance of the Massachusetts School Building Authority. The measure, with a projected $1.2 million cost, will not require any tax increases.

Other open seats this year include incumbent Leona Bombard running for a five year term on the Housing Authority, and recently appointed Stacie Murphy is running for an unexpired term on that board. Incumbent Robert Peterson

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - WCTV and the Town Crier sponsored a Candidates Night last week featuring the candidates for Selectmen. With questions from local newspaper editors and political leaders, the moderated debate was more an informal question and answer session and a chance to get to know the candidates better.

Three of the four candidates for selectman - Louis Cimaglia; incumbent, Daniel Murphy; challenger, and Michael Newhouse; incumbent - participated in the debate, televised live by WCTV.

Challenger Mark Nelson sent a last-minute email to debate organizers at 6:00 p.m. stating that he was unable to attend due to "an urgent business demand." He expressed interest in participating remotely via email and telephone, but WCTV was not able to accommodate such a last-minute request.

The panel - consisting of Stephen Bjork; Editor of the Town Crier, Mac McEntire; Editor of the Wilmington Advocate, Dan Wandell; representing the Democratic Town Committee, and Mario Marchese; representing the Republican Town Committee - asked the questions to the candidates. Town Moderator

A farmers market in Wilmington

Market Association meets

By DANA BURNHAM

WILMINGTON - A group of Wilmington residents met last Thursday at the library in the hopes of organizing a farmers market in Wilmington. After a short presentation about initial steps - a request to the Board of Selectmen for a central location, on-going fact-finding about other markets in the area, and even a freshly-designed logo - the fifteen or so supporters in attendance began a lively discussion of the benefits of such a market, asked questions, and offered suggestions.

Some suggestions included potential locations for the market: perhaps in the parking lot of a church, or on

Sweet Dreams for Haiti

Haiti fundraiser seeks to help quake victims

By DANIEL R. CHALMERS

WILMINGTON - The earthquake that struck Haiti in January 2010 devastated the country, killing over 200,000 people and leaving the nation in ruins. One of the members of the local community who is committed to making a difference is Wilmington native Suzanne Oblom. Oblom visited Port-au-Prince from March 7 to 13 with a group of twelve to assist a community of 2,500 people in the aftermath of the catastrophe.

Oblom described the Haitians she visited as, "very welcoming and open." "We all felt that they were like our family," she added.

In an effort to continue to help the recovery process, Oblom is leading a fundraiser to help purchase 50 cots to help some of the Haitians, many of whom are still forced to sleep on the ground, enjoy a more peaceful night's sleep.

The event is titled Sweet Dreams for Haiti and will be held on May 15 at the United Methodist Church in Wilmington. It will be a spaghetti dinner and will run from 5:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The cost is $8 for adults, and $4 for children.

Oblom's friend Kristina

O'Connell was enthusiastic about Oblom's efforts in

Book Store Next Door celebrates third anniversary

By JOANIE WALSH

WILMINGTON - Time for Spring cleaning? Before you toss those old books into the garbage bin, consider donating them to The "Bookstore Next Door" as they celebrate their third anniversary at the end of this month.

The Book Store Next Door is an all-volunteer used bookstore located next to the Wilmington Memorial Library. Founded by the "Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library" the bookstore opened its doors on April 28, 2007. The building was purchased by the town in 2006 and was being used for storage until Friends committee members, Leslie Dietrich and Sharon Winn proposed the idea of opening a used bookstore to generate more funds for the library. Dietrich and Winn, who served respectively as the store's first manager and assistant manager, worked for months alongside Library Director, Christina Stewart and Friends founder, Karen Campbell. Together, they collected, sorted and organized hundreds of used books, readying the store for its April opening. Now, three years later the Book Store Next Door is a well known entity in the town and generates nearly 50% of the annual funds raised by the Friends.

"The store is a win-win for the entire community," says store manager Robert Hayes. "The store provides residents with a convenient place to recycle unwanted books and media while the library benefits from the money that the Friends raise from running the store."

If you have visited the library lately then you know that during the past three years, the library has been going through a "makeover." Much of the makeover has been made possible through Friends of the Library funding. Over the past year alone, the Friends have purchased a circulation desk for the Children's Room, tables and chairs for the Meeting Room, signage for the first and second floors, end panels for the Children's Room, slat walls for the rear entrance hallway, and activity centers for the Children's Room. The Friends have also sponsored over 50 educational and entertainment programs, funded the museum passes program and also supplemented much of the library's professional development budget last year, allowing staff to attend state and regional library conferences.

According to manager Hayes the success of the bookstore would not be possible without the dedication of the 65-person volunteer staff. A variety of Wilmington residents including some husband-and-wife teams, mother-and-daughter teams, mother-and-son teams, and even families of four dedicate some hours to the bookstore each month. "It's also a great volunteer opportunity for high school students looking for community service hours or seniors looking to spend a few hours a month out in the community." Hayes is especially thankful for the six volunteers who spend endless hours sorting donations and stocking shelves before every opening - Karen Campbell, Kellyn Campbell, Jack Campbell, Jan Ellis, Carmen Sarich, and Sharon Winn.

The Book Store Next Door welcomes your gently used donations of adult fiction, adult non-fiction, children's/teen books, books-on-CD, books-on-tape, CDs, computer games, DVDs, videos and video games. You can drop your donations off during business hours, which are Wednesdays (10:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.) and Saturdays (10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.). You can also schedule a home pick-up or get more information about the store and volunteer opportunities by contacting Robert Hayes at 978-604-8933 or folwilmington@yahoo.com or by visiting the website at <http://www.wilmlibrary.org/about/friends.html>

However, if you really want to get a feel for this wonderful little shop, you should take the time to stop by, browse and buy a book or two. Remember...it's a "win-win." You get a good book at a great price knowing that 100% of the money you spend goes towards supporting and funding the wonderful work of the Wilmington Memorial

Candidates tackle the issues

Themes that emerged during the program included issues of health insurance, free cash, capital improvements, and the high school, among others.

Incumbent candidates Cimaglia and Newhouse praised the teamwork of the current Board of Selectmen, both touting that common theme throughout the campaign. Accomplishments that Cimaglia touted included instituting a fixed-fee for legal counsel, no fees for trash, buses, or sports, single stream recycling, MTBE settlements, and ensuring a plentiful water supply by joining MWRA at no cost to the ratepayers.

Newhouse agreed, adding the recent designation from Business Week that Wilmington is the "Best Affordable" town in Massachusetts, the strength of the professional administration in Wilmington, and the fact that there have not been any pink slips for town employees.

Wandell, also a member of the Finance Committee, asked members if they thought that the $125,000 warrant article for the Building Department to fund emergency repairs and preventative maintenance ought to be incorporated as a yearly line item in the budget. Newhouse supported the idea, but added that the town already does much in terms of infrastructure improvement for capital assets and technology improvements. Newhouse also promoted one of his top agenda items, to improve field space for athletes and students in town, to add a playground, and to install a new turf management program next year.

Newhouse later gave credence to a meals tax in Wilmington, something no one on the Board of Selectmen has previously supported. When asked by Marchese about what the town might do to combat potential future local aid cuts not sustainable within the proposed budget, Newhouse stated that he previously opposed the local option tax as "just another tax" but added that when looking at the projections the tax would just be an additional .75 cents on a $100 meal, or a penny on a cup of coffee, a factor that for him makes the option more palatable.

Cimaglia said that he is not in favor of any new taxes to close budget gaps, but would prefer a route of conservative budgeting and spending and in the worst case looking at free cash. Neither touched a question about casino gambling.

Bjork asked candidates about challenges on the horizon that the town "needs to get in front of." Newhouse said that the selectmen need to continue to position the town to take advantage of major capital projects such as "endorsing an appropriation of money that will find real alternatives and real costs associated with the prospect of improving the high school - be it renovation, reconstruction, addition, or new construction."

Newhouse also supports the idea of perhaps pursuing a new fire substation in North Wilmington, citing that every generation has the responsibility to make the town better for the next generations.

Cimaglia, Newhouse and Murphy all stated that to some extent they support the high school feasibility study when asked by Marchese if they would hypothetically support it even if MSBA did not reimburse the town. However, the sentiment is more in support of the process and waiting until the results of the study are in before moving forward.

"To me it doesn't make any sense to draw any conclusions or to take any position set in stone until you have all the facts," said Newhouse.

When asked by Bjork how they might counsel a young couple looking to purchase property in Wilmington, both Cimaglia and Newhouse were eloquent about their hometown.

"You cannot find a better place to raise kids, get to know your neighbor, and get the best bang for your buck," said Newhouse, praising the strong spirit of volunteerism in town.

"You want to move to a place that you can afford," said Cimaglia, adding that the average tax bill in town increased just $14 over two years. "What do you get for those dollars? You get all these services that you don't have to pay (extra user fees) for, and the schools are a huge selling point... I think it's a no-brainer."

Murphy declined from responding to most questions during the debate. He stated several times that he was either nervous or just did not have much to say.

The Town Election is Saturday, April 24 (THIS Saturday). Do your town proud and participate in your right and responsibility to vote.

TAX CHANGES FOR 2010

There aren't a lot of changes for the new year. Congress will be tweaking the tax laws all year, putting back some things that have expired, changing a few others. Watch the news.

Social Security benefits didn't get a cost-of-living adjustment. And there's no change in the Social Security wage base; it stays at $106,800. FICA taxes are 6.2 percent up to that amount, plus 1.45 percent for Medicare. The self-employed pay double.

For your health savings account, the annual limit on deductible contributions rises to $6,150 for those with family coverage and to $3,050 for single coverage. Those born before 1956 can add another $1,000. Deductions for long-term-care insurance go up to $4,110 per person for those 71 and older, $3,290 for those 61 to 70, $1,230 for individuals 51 to 60, $620 for those 41 to 50 and $330 for age 40 and younger. Workers terminated before March 1 of this year can qualify for another six months of COBRA subsidy.

We keep up with the latest tax change, so you don't have to. Come see the tax people at

Town Crier

Letters to the editor

WEF Board Members ask you to support Article 10

To the residents of Wilmington, Members of the Wilmington Educational Foundation (WEF) Board ask you to help us make a difference in Wilmington High School's future by attending Wilmington's Town Meeting on Saturday, May 1, and voting YES on Article 10. Article 10 authorizes the town to conduct a feasibility study for future improvements to Wilmington High School - it is not a vote on whether to build a new high school. The study will be paid out of the use of available funds already in the municipal budget, so there will be no added cost to residents' taxes and the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) will reimburse 48.57% of the fee.

The feasibility study will help our town determine what is the right solution regarding the high school - to repair, renovate or to construct a new building. After analyzing the possible solutions, an accurate cost estimate will be presented to the town for further consideration, which will then be voted on by residents for approval. Article 10 provides us with a chance to review our options, determine a cost-effective, long-term solution, and ultimately save our town a minimum of half of the cost to improve our high school through MSBA funding. If Article 10 fails to pass, the result will likely be that our school district will be required to submit a new Statement of Interest to the MSBA and wait up to four years to qualify for consideration again.

Regarding improvements to the high school, it is important to understand that Wilmington will be reimbursed for at least 50% of the cost to renovate, rebuild or build a new high school through the MSBA. Improvements to the high school will increase home values and make Wilmington a more desirable community, so this matter warrants important consideration by all residents of Wilmington - whether or not you have children in the public school system. It will not only enhance our educational system and town, but will better prepare upcoming generations of Wilmington residents for the future.

Article 10 provides the significant next step in this process. Please ask your neighbors, family and friends to make their voices heard by voting "YES" on Article 10 at the Town Meeting on Saturday, May 1, at the High School gymnasium starting at 10:30 a.m. We appreciate your consideration and support.

Jomarie O'Mahony

Recognizing tireless efforts

Dear Editor,

It is with sincere gratitude that I recognize the tireless efforts of Fresh Air Fund volunteers in eastern Massachusetts as the country celebrates National Volunteer Week. Their commitment to helping New York City children is exemplary for all community members and truly embodies the spirit of the 2010 National Volunteer Week theme, "Celebrating People in Action."

Fresh Air volunteers work in several capacities throughout the year in 13 Northeastern states and Canada to help make The Fund's programs possible. Caring Fresh Air host families open their homes and share the everyday joys of summertime with their Fresh Air guests. Our local volunteer leaders - many of whom are also hosts - serve on our local committees, plan summer activities, publicize the program and interview prospective host families. Additionally, individuals and businesses give generously of their time and resources to make the Friendly Town host family program throughout this area a great success each and every summer.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million New York City children since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call The Fresh Air Fund at 800-367-0003 or visit www.freshair.org.

Sincerely,
Jenny Morgenthau

How many times have you heard the expression: "It's not what you say, it's how you say it!"? Personally, I've heard that expression all my life and I believe it to be true. In line with that true-ism, WCTV is offering a special class open to Wilmington High School Juniors and Seniors to help them as they embark on

WCTV offering Presentation Skills class

College or Job interviews.

This class will be a specially tailored version of WCTV's class: "The Art of the Interview" and will be held on Thursday night April 29, from 7:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m. at WCTV, 10 Waltham Street. This class is ideal for intended Communications majors as well as anyone who would like to learn some tricks on presenting themselves in the best light possible.

We will cover such topics as what to wear on an interview, how to answer difficult questions with poise and how to "do your homework" before you go on any type of interview. We will also discuss body language interpretation, eliminating regionalism from your speech and much more!

If you are already a member of WCTV in good standing -

Letters to the editor

Wildwood Cemetery Expansion

Dear Editor

The recent rainstorms that saturated the wetlands of Wilmington (and all of the surrounding towns) have also filled the wetlands that surround the Wildwood Cemetery. This is a major situation because this saturation limits the expansion of the cemetery. Soon Wildwood Cemetery will be filled to capacity and more land will be needed for graves. The Director of Public Works had previously suggested that the former Frotton farm across Wildwood Street that abuts the high school athletic complex be the logical site for cemetery expansion. But Article 10 on this year's town meeting warrant shows only the original high school site and does not include the Frotton property that was acquired on Wildwood Street. In the Dore Whittier

Architects High School Expansion Study of 2008 it is clearly shown that the new Athletic Complex extends out to Wildwood Street and the building of athletic fields on and over existing wetlands. This athletic field expansion would preclude any cemetery expansion to that side of the street. If this be true then where will the need for new graves be found? The Town Forest or Camp 40 Acres on Andover Street or at the Town Park on lower Main Street. I think that the voters should be very wary and only let the land on Wildwood Street be used for the expansion of the Wildwood Cemetery. Family burial now and for future generations is a very sensitive and caring issue.

Financial recovery following natural disasters

What you don't know could cost you

By Barbara O'Neill
Senior Tax Advisor
Tewksbury, MA

During natural disasters, like the recent floods, people worry first about their families and safety, then about their homes and other belongings. Once the disaster subsides, the rebuilding of everyday lives, and the property that has been damaged or destroyed, begins.

Residents are picking up the pieces of their life, sometimes quite literally. You need to know just what you can do to claim your losses, receive funds quickly and get on with rebuilding. You also need to know that your tax or financial advisor should be able to answer these questions.

But where should impacted taxpayers begin?

Tax filers may claim a casualty loss on either their 2009 or 2010 return. The tax code states if a taxpayer elects to claim a disaster loss on their prior year's tax return it is treated as if the casualty occurred in that year. What this means is taxpayers can claim losses from the recent flood disaster on their 2009 tax return and the IRS will treat the loss as if it happened in 2009 rather than recently. This enables disaster victims to recoup their losses more quickly.

If Massachusetts and

Rhode Island residents choose to claim their loss on their 2009 tax return, special rules will apply:

- No 10 percent floor.
- $500 reduction per event instead of the normal $100
- The loss can be claimed as part of the standard deduction, so itemizing (Schedule A) is not required.

Calculating a casualty loss, however, can be a confusing process and the best advice is to contact your tax professional immediately for assistance.

For example, any personal use property losses not covered by insurance or other reimbursements may be deducted. But, taxpayers must first subtract $100 for each casualty event and then subtract 10 percent of their adjusted gross income from the total casualty losses for the year. As explained above, these limitations are different if the loss is claimed in 2009 instead of 2010. Taxpayers should ask a tax professional for assistance in choosing the best option for them.

Following a declared disaster, the IRS generally grants later filing relief to affected taxpayers. In this case it is May 11, 2010. This means the IRS will not assess penalties or interest if tax returns are filed and other obligations are performed within a specified date. Taxpayers may be affected if they live, work, or have financial records located in a federal disaster area, or if they are a qualified relief worker assisting in the disaster area. For information, go to state-specific information on the IRS Web site for the impacted states: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, West Virginia.

It's just as important to be prepared before a potential disaster strikes.

Most of us want to believe a natural disaster or national emergency will never happen to us. But the simple truth is that a disaster can strike at any time, anywhere and affect anyone.

To help minimize the financial impact of a natural disaster, taxpayers should complete the Personal Disaster Preparedness Guide and the Emergency Financial First Aid Kit; two free, simple tools from Operation HOPE, America's non-profit leader in providing financial literacy and economic empowerment programs. The forms are available at www.operationhope.org and click on the EFFAK logo on the left hand side.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

I was appalled when I read the only post in last week's two cents column. This Wilmington resident took the time to leave the library, stew for God knows how long about his/her own self-centered right, look up the Crier's contact information, and write almost a full paragraph to complain about two 'gentlemen' discussing a 40th anniversary (among other things) together in the library. It seems that would take much more effort, rather than saying a polite "excuse me" would you mind toning it down a bit, I really need to get my work done and I am having trouble concentrating." Kindness goes a long way, which is probably why they were married for that long to begin with. There was nothing 'gentle' about this post and seems that resident is the one who needs to learn more 'etiquette' dealing with his/her own rudeness.

Tewksbury

Where do all these low-lives come from who are stealing decoration off of the graves of our loved ones in Wildwood Cemetery?

Surely no one with a friend or loved one buried there would be so rotten to steal from fellow townspeople. So it must be some dirtbag from out of town.

Since our Police Dept. can't possibly sit there day and night to protect our property, it's up to us citizens to keep our eyes open when visiting our loved ones for anyone acting suspiciously and report license plates to police.

This has been going on for many years now, and there must be some way to catch these thieves.

Everyone who is buying flowers and decorations for the graves knows how much we are spending to make our cemetery look nice and to honor those we have buried there.

Winchester Hospital Parenthood class exclusively for fathers

WINCHESTER

Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute will be offering a parenthood class exclusively for fathers from 9 a.m. to noon on May 22 at Baldwin Park I, 12 Alfred St. in Woburn.

While the majority of books and childbirth classes are aimed at new mothers, expectant fathers often don't have many opportunities to learn and comfortably ask questions about newborn care. As a result, many feel unprepared for fatherhood. That is why the Community Health Institute has launched the Dad's Baby Basics class, which is completely geared toward men. The class will teach expectant fathers the basics about pregnancy and newborn care, including how to connect with the baby and your partner before and after birth, how to change a diaper, how to help with breastfeeding, how to keep the baby safe, and how to cope with the lack of sleep.

Sue Powers, associate director for Community Health Institute, said the objective of the class is to "teach fathers about the physical and emotional changes in family dynamics that occur before and after birth." During this class, new fathers will share their personal experiences and find support from other dads.

The class is taught once a month by Ray Barry, an experienced father and instructor. The cost is $40. To register, please visit www.winchesterhospital.org or call (781)-756-4700.

Winchester Hospital is recognized as one of the most prominent obstetrics departments in the area and delivers nearly 2,000 babies every year.

Winchester Hospital is the first community hospital in Massachusetts to earn Magnet recognition, the American Nurses Association's highest honor for nursing excellence. As the northwest suburban Boston area's leading provider of comprehensive health care services, the 229-bed facility provides care in orthopedics, general and vascular surgery, pediatrics, cardiology, pulmonary medicine, oncology, gastroenterology, rehabilitation, radiation oncology, pain management, obstetrics/gynecology and a Level IIB Special Care Nursery. Winchester Hospital has clinical affiliations with several nationally recognized hospitals in the region, including Children's Hospital Boston, Tufts Medical Center and Beth Israel Deaconess Center. Fundraising carnival

WILMINGTON - The Friends of the Lydon Family are holding a fundraiser on Sunday, April 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus. The event will include carnival activities and arts and crafts as well as a raffle and silent auction. All proceeds will go to the Lydon Family.

The Friends of the Lydon Family are the family and friends of Paul Lydon; remarkable man, loving husband to Alice, amazing father of four children ranging in age from three to eight years old, devoted son and loyal friend. Paul was diagnosed with the dreadful disease amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), otherwise known as Lou Gehrig's disease, in May 2008. The challenges this family face run the gamut of financial, medical, physical and emotional needs. It is imperative that the Lydon family has the opportunity to enjoy their life together and build lasting memories. The Lydons are an active family in Wilmington who are parishioners at St. Thomas of Villanova Church and whose children are participants in many activities, including soccer and Cub Scouts.

You can visit their website at www.friendsofthelydonfamily.org

Sudden hearing loss: Something to be taken seriously

"Gradual hearing loss is the norm", reports Loleata Wigall from Atlantic Audiology. "Most people begin to lose their hearing in their twenties. With the use of iPods and exposure to loud noises, hearing loss is affecting people earlier in life than their parents. Sometimes people experience a sudden hearing loss. If this is the case, they should contact their physician immediately."

Sudden hearing loss is defined as a sudden decrease in hearing over 72 hours. It is considered a medical emergency, and the person experiencing sudden hearing loss should seek immediate medical attention, usually an Ear, Nose and Throat (otolaryngologist) Physician's office.

The exact cause of a sudden hearing loss is unknown but is thought to be viral. The hearing loss is usually in one ear. The typical treatment is a steroid given for 10-14 days. Statistically, the recovery of the hearing loss is about 60%.

The sudden hearing loss condition affects about 4,000 people each year. Most commonly, people report that they wake up and notice that their ear is plugged. They cannot hear on the phone using that ear. Oftentimes, people mistake this for an ear plugging as a result of a cold or allergies. However, sudden hearing loss should not be taken lightly. The sooner the diagnosis and treatment begins, the more likely the success rate of the treatment.

WASHINGTON, DC - Congresswoman Niki Tsongas is encouraging high school students from the Fifth Congressional District to participate in the 2010 Congressional Art Competition. The annual competition promotes artistic talent and achievement among young artists, with winners having their artwork displayed in the U.S. Capitol Building.

This year, the winning student will have his or her artwork hung in the United States Capitol for one year, as well as receive a complimentary trip to Washington, D.C. from Southwest Airlines to participate in an awards ceremony in June. Savannah College of Art and Design is also offering a $1,500 renewable scholarship to the winner, providing that the student applies and is accepted.

All individuals who wish to participate must follow the guidelines established by the Competition's committee as well as complete a Student Information & Release Form which can be found on Tsongas' website (tsongas.house.gov) along with additional information. Artwork should be delivered to any of Congresswoman Tsongas' district offices no later than April 28, 2010.

Wilmington Middle School Student Council member Erica Mullaney, Kaili Martin, and Officer Chip Bruce during the school's first-ever Culture Week, during which students acknowledged and celebrated cultural diversity.

A Taste of Culture

WILMINGTON - Members of the Wilmington Middle School's Student Council hosted its first Culture Week from April 12-16. The week consisted of games based on cultures from around the world along with a day for students to dress in the colors of their heritage while enjoying lunches prepared with cultural flavor. School Resource Officer Chip Bruce initiated the event along with sixth grade teacher Michael Mahoney and the WMS Student Council. "This is a week that is a continuation of the Second Step program that has been running throughout the school year," said Bruce. "The students have responded nicely to the program and have become part of all the events. It's great to help the students understand culture and accept diversity."

Throughout the week, students were involved with cultural games. On Monday, students were asked to identify the country of origin of different sporting events while on Tuesday they were asked to name which country was the home to famous landmarks. Wednesday offered the students the opportunity to name countries that invented certain games with Thursday being the day to name foods from around the world. As a closing event on Friday, students were asked to identify flags from around the world. Students who were able to correctly identify all countries of origin won prizes throughout the week.

Lunch was tailored to Culture Week with entrees consisting of European Faire, Parisian Pleasure, Latin America Dining, Asian Delights and International Food Day. Michele Pepper, cafeteria manager at WMS, enjoyed being a part of Culture Week. "All of the cafeteria staff likes to be involved with the students as much as possible and Culture Week allowed us to be a part of a school wide program," offered Pepper.

Student Council members

planned for this event for months including making posters for the school hallways, creating the games and promoting the event to fellow classmates. "I personally think it is a really good idea to get students involved in other cultures because everybody is different," said Student Council member Kaili Martin.

Culture Week was an effort by Student Council members to help the continuing efforts of bringing understanding of diversity and acceptance to the Middle School. "It is important to foster a school climate that is positive and that is respectful of individual differences. We want students to be proud of their cultural backgrounds and be proud of their classmates who may be from a different ethnicity or might speak a different language. I am impressed with the students' knowledge of different cultural traditions," said Principal Christine McMenimen.

Stroller Strides of North Wilmington supports National Women's Health Week

Local women can make exercise fun

WILMINGTON - Stroller Strides of North Wilmington is encouraging women in the area to honor National Women's Health Week, a weeklong celebration beginning on Mother's Day, May 9th.

Designed by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office of Women's Health, the nationwide initiative strives to empower women to make their health a top priority. Highlights of the campaign include recommendations for women in fitness, nutrition, healthcare, and avoiding risky behaviors, such as smoking and excess alcohol use.

"Women are so accustomed to taking care of others and it is common for them to put their own health on the back burner," said Christina Bentley, owner of Stroller Strides of North Wilmington. "Women in the Wilmington area should look and feel their best. Good health should not be considered a luxury."

Bentley, who teaches exercise classes to area moms along with their babies, acknowledges that jam-packed schedules make eating well and exercising challenging for many women. The key to changing this pattern, Bentley says, is getting in - and sticking to - a routine that is convenient and fun.

"National Women's Health Week presents an ideal opportunity for women to work on their diet or try a new type of exercise," said Bentley. "Whether they're stuck in a rut or haven't exercised in months, now is the time for them to take charge and make changes."

"During National Women's Health Week it is important to educate our wives, mothers, grandmothers, daughters, sisters, aunts, and girlfriends about the steps they can take to improve their health and prevent disease.

Remind women that taking care of themselves is essential to living longer, healthier, and happier lives," emphasized Frances Ashe-Goins, Acting Director of the Office of Women's Health in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Stroller Strides, a total fitness program for new moms with exercises they can do with their babies, incorporates power walking with intervals of strength and body toning using exercise tubing and the stroller. All classes are taught by nationally certified instructors, and focus on improving cardiovascular endurance, strength and flexibility.

In addition, Stroller Strides of North Wilmington also organizes LUNA Moms Club playgroups and mom's night out events, which are designed to give women an opportunity to socialize and further relationships. According to Bentley it is these elements that make the Stroller Strides program a success, since they allow women to make the most of their time.

"We understand that many women multi-task and must find exercise options that don't keep them away from their busy to-do list," said Bentley. "That is why we've designed our workouts to include several different components. This way, local moms get a well-rounded, effective and enjoyable workout in just an hour of their time."

For more information about Stroller Strides of North Wilmington or about the Stroller Strides program, please contact Christina Bentley at 888.853.1412.

Ranked among Entrepreneur Magazine's Fastest Growing Franchises in 2010, Stroller Strides offers classes in more than 1,000 locations in the United States and Canada. The hour-long classes emphasize cardiovascular activities and muscle-strengthening exercises using resistance bands and strollers, allowing moms to interact with their babies throughout their workout. To further assist mothers in all aspects of their lives, Stroller Strides partners with LUNA® and BOB®. For more information about Stroller Strides, including class locations, visit www.strollerstrides.com

Last Saturday the Arlington Knights of Columbus held its third annual "Support the Troops" fundraiser at the Arlington Sons of Italy. It was a wonderful evening that included special guests like State Senator Kenneth Donnelly, Chairman of the Committee on Veterans and Federal Affairs, The Super 8 Band, representatives from the Ahern Family Charitable Foundation of Wilmington and Matt Noyes, Meteorologist from NECN as the Auctioneer. The evening raised over $22,000 for Wilmington's Local Heroes.

Abundant Life Church hosts...

Family movie night

WILMINGTON - Abundant Life Church, located on the Wilmington Common, will be presenting a family-friendly full-length movie feature entitled The Adventures of Milo and Otis on Friday, April 23rd at 7 p.m., ending by 8:30 p.m.

The Adventures of Milo and Otis is the story of a friendship between a kitten named Milo and a pug puppy named Otis. Milo is the curious cat and has a habit of getting himself into trouble. One day Milo is playing inside a box floating in the river when he accidentally drifts downstream. Otis, a true friend, follows Milo down the river. In his journey he encounters bears, swamps and a number of other creatures and challenging situations. The movie is filled with laughter and great adventures. Eventually Milo and Otis are reunited, raise families and find their way back to their original barn home.

This is a great family movie with lots of laughter. Children from pre-kindergarten through elementary school will enjoy it and so will adults. It teaches the importance and power of friendship and how we all need good

Century 21 Starwood Associates

Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals

WILMINGTON - Century 21 Starwood Associates is pleased to announce that their 6th Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals will be held in Wilmington and North Reading on Saturday, May 1st from noon to 4 p.m.

According to Broker/Owner Dave O'Neil, "We anticipate a fun filled event that will 'Open House' a wide range of property styles, sizes, locations and market values as part of the 2010 Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals. In addition, this year we have a classic car collection available on the parade route for viewing."

"Featured homes are not for sale. We have asked friends and neighbors to open their homes to the public in order to raise money to donate to Easter Seals. Much like a traditional Sunday Open House that we conduct while marketing a property, we would invite the public to see decorating ideas, kitchen and bath designs, landscaping accomplishments and a whole host of amenities that we envision as features that they might like to take back home with them."

Easter Seals helps people with all kinds of disabilities - individuals disabled through illness, accident or aging - by providing technology resources, job training and employment, rehabilitation and therapy services, day care and in home companionship to frail elders, summer camp activities, and comprehensive up to date referrals for disability services to a wide variety of agencies and organizations.

In addition to ticket sales, funds are raised from the generosity of local businesses who advertise on the maps passed out directing parade-goers to the featured homes. Also, many local businesses and area professionals have donated raffle items which add to the day's festivities, all in the name of raising money for Easter Seals.

Over the past 25 years, CENTURY 21 has raised in excess of $100 million in supporting Easter Seals and the wonderful work that it does in providing a variety of programs and services for children and adults with disabilities or special needs. Locally, Century 21 Starwood of Wilmington, and its parent company Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil of North Reading, have raised more than $50,000 for Easter Seals by sponsoring the Parades of Homes.

Tickets are now available from Century 21 Starwood, 299 Main St., Wilmington at 978-657-8444 and 978-851-1021 or Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil, 247 Main St., North Reading at 978-664-2100 and 781-944-2100.

Cub Scouts Pack 136 preparing for the opening flag ceremony for the Wilmington Garden Club's talk on trees at the Library on April 8th. Pack 136 has joined together with the Garden Club to bring new disease-free Elm trees back to Wilmington in celebration of both Arbor Day and a Scouting Re-Tree-it initiative (part of the 100th Anniversary of Scouting Celebrations this year). With the help of a donation from Wilmington Rotary Club, Pack 136 will be planting five elm trees throughout town on Saturday, May 1st. Times to be announced. In attendance were Alex Howlett, Parker Howlett, John Spina, Zachary Dancewicz, Nathaniel Howlett, Zachary Perdicaro, Nicholas Gorham, and Matthew Botte.

Local women can make exercise fun

WILMINGTON - Stroller Strides of North Wilmington is encouraging women in the area to honor National Women's Health Week, a weeklong celebration beginning on Mother's Day, May 9th.

Designed by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office of Women's Health, the nationwide initiative strives to empower women to make their health a top priority. Highlights of the campaign include recommendations for women in fitness, nutrition, healthcare, and avoiding risky behaviors, such as smoking and excess alcohol use.

"Women are so accustomed to taking care of others and it is common for them to put their own health on the back burner," said Christina Bentley, owner of Stroller Strides of North Wilmington. "Women in the Wilmington area should look and feel their best. Good health should not be considered a luxury."

Bentley, who teaches exercise classes to area moms along with their babies, acknowledges that jam-packed schedules make eating well and exercising challenging for many women. The key to changing this pattern, Bentley says, is getting in - and sticking to - a routine that is convenient and fun.

"National Women's Health Week presents an ideal opportunity for women to work on their diet or try a new type of exercise," said Bentley. "Whether they're stuck in a rut or haven't exercised in months, now is the time for them to take charge and make changes."

"During National Women's Health Week it is important to educate our wives, mothers, grandmothers, daughters, sisters, aunts, and girlfriends about the steps they can take to improve their health and prevent disease.

Remind women that taking care of themselves is essential to living longer, healthier, and happier lives," emphasized Frances Ashe-Goins, Acting Director of the Office of Women's Health in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Stroller Strides, a total fitness program for new moms with exercises they can do with their babies, incorporates power walking with

intervals of strength and body toning using exercise tubing and the stroller. All classes are taught by nationally certified instructors, and focus on improving cardiovascular endurance, strength and flexibility.

In addition, Stroller Strides of North Wilmington also organizes LUNA Moms Club playgroups and mom's night out events, which are designed to give women an opportunity to socialize and further relationships. According to Bentley it is these elements that make the Stroller Strides program a success, since they allow women to make the most of their time.

"We understand that many women multi-task and must find exercise options that don't keep them away from their busy to-do list," said Bentley. "That is why we've designed our workouts to include several different components. This way, local moms get a well-rounded, effective and enjoyable workout in just an hour of their time."

For more information about Stroller Strides of North Wilmington or about the Stroller Strides program, please contact Christina Bentley at 888.853.1412.

Ranked among Entrepreneur Magazine's Fastest Growing Franchises in 2010, Stroller Strides offers classes in more than 1,000 locations in the United States and Canada. The hour-long classes emphasize cardiovascular activities and muscle-strengthening exercises using resistance bands and strollers, allowing moms to interact with their babies throughout their workout. To further assist mothers in all aspects of their lives, Stroller Strides partners with LUNA® and BOB®. For more information about Stroller Strides, including class locations, visit www.strollerstrides.com

Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals

WILMINGTON - Century 21 Starwood Associates is pleased to announce that their 6th Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals will be held in Wilmington and North Reading on Saturday, May 1st from noon to 4 p.m.

According to Broker/Owner Dave O'Neil, "We anticipate a fun filled event that will 'Open House' a wide range of property styles, sizes, locations and market values as part of the 2010 Parade of Homes to benefit Easter Seals. In addition, this year we have a classic car collection available on the parade route for viewing."

Featured homes are not for sale. We have asked friends and neighbors to open their homes to the public in order to raise money to donate to Easter Seals. Much like a traditional Sunday Open House that we conduct while marketing a property, we would invite the public to see decorating ideas, kitchen and bath designs, landscaping accomplishments and a whole host of amenities that we envision as features that they might like to take back home with them."

Easter Seals helps people with all kinds of disabilities - individuals disabled through illness, accident or aging - by providing technology resources, job training and employment, rehabilitation and therapy services, day care and in home companionship to frail elders, summer camp activities, and comprehensive up to date referrals for disability services to a wide variety of agencies and organizations.

In addition to ticket sales, funds are raised from the generosity of local businesses who advertise on the maps passed out directing parade-goers to the featured homes. Also, many local businesses and area professionals have donated raffle items which add to the day's festivities, all in the name of raising money for Easter Seals.

Over the past 25 years, CENTURY 21 has raised in excess of $100 million in supporting Easter Seals and the wonderful work that it does in providing a variety of programs and services for children and adults with disabilities or special needs. Locally, Century 21 Starwood of Wilmington, and its parent company Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil of North Reading, have raised more than $50,000 for Easter Seals by sponsoring the Parades of Homes.

Tickets are now available from Century 21 Starwood, 299 Main St., Wilmington at 978-657-8444 and 978-651-1021 or Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil, 247 Main St., North Reading at 978-664-2100 and 781-944-2100.

Cub Scouts Pack 136 preparing for the opening flag ceremony for the Wilmington Garden Club's talk on trees at the Library on April 8th. Pack 136 has joined together with the Garden Club to bring new disease-free Elm trees back to Wilmington in celebration of both Arbor Day and a Scouting Re-Tree-it initiative (part of the 100th Anniversary of Scouting Celebrations this year). With the help of a donation from Wilmington Rotary Club, Pack 136 will be planting five elm trees throughout town on Saturday, May 1st. Times to be announced. In attendance were Alex Howlett, Parker Howlett, John Spina, Zachary Dancewicz, Nathaniel Howlett, Zachary Perdicaro, Nicholas Gorham, and Matthew Botte.

Money my Money
Money oh Money in the bank,
It's my family I must thank.
From birthdays, communions,
And holidays,
How did I get it...
These are the ways:
From auntie, from nana,
from mommy and dad,
When they gave it to me,
I became glad, but their pockets were sad.
I bought toys and nice things, all for myself,
Little did I know I was losing my wealth.
A long while after I went to the bank,
When I got my statement,
The paper was blank!
I had spent all my money,
And didn't realize,

Wow, this experience has opened my eyes!

Virtue and Vice, Everything Nice
O! That green stuff,
That demon-hearted, cold stuff
That turns men's hearts to dust.
O! That virtue, that Vice,
Forbidden fruit, tempting, gambling dice
That gets you all evil, buys you everything nice.
O! That elusive treasure,
Bringing pain, bring pleasure.
The rich man has it, but the poor man, never!
O! Great scourge of earth,
Making men abandon nature
In hopes of finding false leisure.
O! Cries the poor man,
Why have I none?
Ho! Cries the rich man,
My pleasure is begun!
But only in opening his desperate eyes
May man find
That money is the reason for life
And the destruction of human kind.

Market Association meets

best to have it once a week throughout the summer and into the early fall, participants suggested holding it either on a weekday, possibly in the early evening, or on a weekend morning or afternoon.

Many also liked the idea of having local acoustic music as entertainment during market hours, thinking that it would be a great way to showcase, for example, some of the groups in town such as Strings Attached, the high school's jazz band, or an a capella group.

Other considerations were whether to organize as a non-profit entity, how to find farmers, what other types of vendors to bring in, the impact on the town's public works, and the likely need for sanitary facilities.

Next on tap is a working meeting on April 27, at 7:00 p.m., also at the Wilmington Memorial Library, where volunteers will be asked to "roll up their sleeves" to start doing the work it will take to make a market a reality. As suggested in Thursday's meeting, the association will need to develop by-laws, find out what regulatory requirements the town and the state have, figure out what specific roles need to be filled, and target when best to hold a market. Organizers also hope to appear before the Board of Selectmen again, to update them on findings and progress.

The panel asking questions of the candidates during Candidates Night last Thursday was comprised of Town Crier Editor Stephen Bjork, Democratic Town Committee representative Daniel Wandell, Republican Town Committee representative Mario Marchese, and Advocate Editor Mac McEntire.

Haiti and about the upcoming fundraiser. "Everything Suzanne does is from the heart," O'Connell said. "She is truly a grounded person who delivers on her word and I think this effort is another shining example. The goal of this Sweet Dreams project is realistic and something our community can deliver while enjoying a family evening together. It will affect this Haitian community in ways we cannot even relate to."

A silent auction is planned for the evening, as well as musical entertainment. Donations from local businesses are welcome. "People can come out and have fun as well as giving to a worthy cause," Oblom said. The cots will be purchased within the country through a translator that is acquainted with Oblom's group.

Church members will be cooking the food and helping to organize the event. Oblom said that she hopes to have other events in the future, and that she is working with other team members to make it a reality.

A Facebook event page has been set up for the fundraiser and can be found by searching for "Sweet Dreams, Project Haiti." Additionally, the email address sweetdreams4haiti@yahoo.com is available to field questions or ticket inquiries. Tickets will also be sold at the door. Donations and volunteers are also welcome to contact Oblom through the email address or via the Facebook page.

"I'm just hoping that people in Wilmington will embrace this idea of reaching out," Oblom said. "There's such a great need."

Town Election this Saturday

is running for the Shawsheen Valley Regional Technical High School Committee.

Polls are open Saturday from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Last year the town paid an estimated $14.43 per vote with only 693 voters. Town elections typically cost $10,000, most of which goes to salaries to operate the polls, with workers, police officers, and custodians at each polling place. Other costs include printing ballots, memory cards for the voting machines and flash memory cards for handicapped accessible machines. The higher the turnout, the lower the cost of each vote.

George believes turnout will likely rise this year as there is one contested race - there were no contested races last year - and new names on the ballot.

Wilmington Middle School students Joe Visalli, Mike DeMarco, Tom Stein and Chris Romano watched a nail melt right before their eyes during the Analog Devices Science and Technology Fair held at the school on Friday. Larry DeVito supervised the demonstration.

Marathon Monday brings out 17 local runners Buckley all about the team

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

Four months ago, Neil Buckley wanted to do something that contributed in some way to helping people he didn't know. So Buckley, a Wilmington resident for 35 years, joined the Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge team, put on his running shoes, and started training for the Boston Marathon.

Buckley, 38, chose to get involved with the DFMC team to help support finding a cure for cancer. Many of Buckley's family, friends, and colleagues have had their lives changed by the disease, including Buckley's 88-year-old grandfather, Anthony Rose.

"I really wanted to do something that contributed in some way to helping people I didn't know," said Buckley. "Raising money through running the marathon was the best idea I could come up with at the time."

Buckley ran the historic 26.2-mile marathon route from Hopkinton to Boston in 5:51. It was the first road race he ran in two years, and none of them were longer than five miles.

Buckley was a late entry and didn't start training for the race until this past January. His training routine included a two week schedule, as he ran five days alternating between a six mile flat loop and a nine mile hills route.

During the second week he only ran three times, as he would run two six mile flat loops and then a long run of 14 miles. He would move his long run up two miles every month, eventually capping out at 20 miles in early April. Buckley also mixed in some cross training to help keep his activity level up.

Buckley said the race got more difficult as he got closer to the finisher line.

"The first 15 miles was an easy jog, but it became about putting one foot in front of the other after 15," said Buckley. "The hardest part was mile 21-24, as I started to mentally struggle at that point. Heartbreak hill was a walk-a-thon for me and I wasn't too proud to call it done at the bottom of that hill and walk to the top."

Buckley was one of over 23,000 people who ran in the 114th Boston Marathon. He

Peterson enjoys the party

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

It was quite literally the party for Tom Peterson as he started to run in the Boston Marathon on Monday. Because of the high bib number he had, Peterson started the race in the very last pen behind the power walkers, the people in animal-balloon hats, and other various mascots.

Peterson, 45, of Wilmington, had to make up ground and run around the people in the parade, and he ended up having to run more miles to do so. By the time Peterson reached the half-marathon mark, his GPS watch, which is accurate to about 20 feet, read that he had actually run 14.0 miles to cover the first 13.1.

While Peterson tried to do his best safely to cut through all the traffic, he said it did make him run more miles than he should have.

"All the zigging and zagging cost me tremendous time and energy, so at the (half-marathon) point I decided to just enjoy the parade, run with some friends, and forget about a time," said Peterson. "It was quite the party - but not a fast party."

When Peterson reached the finish line, his GPS watch measured a distance of 27.8 miles, 1.6 miles more than the 26.2 miles he had to run! He finished the race with a relaxing time of 4:25, but he blames the high bib number he got for costing him some time.

"The non-qualified bib number I got this year was in the upper 28-thousands," said Peterson. "Although race organizers claimed to have only 25 thousand runners this year, I saw bib numbers in the 29K range, and there could have been upwards of 5k bandits, so it was quite the crowd."

Running extra miles through a parade of mascots in one of the world's largest marathon is difficult enough, but Peterson also had to deal with the thousands of college students yelling at him when he was running up the hills.

"Heartbreak Hill and the collection of four steep hills along Commonwealth Ave and ending at Boston College was quite a crowd, with hundreds and thousands of crazy Boston College students out in force," said Peterson. "The loudest crowd by far, however, was the women of Wellesley College."

"My ears are still ringing from the screaming. Many held signs reading 'kiss me, I'm a senior'. Others were far funnier but less suitable for print."

Overall, Peterson said it was all in good fun and he enjoyed running in the 114th annual road race.

"It was a great day and a wonderful experience for myself and everyone around me," said Peterson. "Many ran for a purpose or a foundation, with names or pictures of deceased relatives on their shirts. Many ran for themselves, using running as the physical or psychological cure."

Peterson grew up in Barrington, Rhode Island and graduated from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1986. He participated in the cross country and wrestling in high school and college, but never excelled as a runner.

Peterson suffered knee injuries all throughout high school and college and had knee surgeries on both knees. He has been working with Nova Biomedical Corporation, which is located in Waltham, as a new product development engineer and manager since 2007.

He did not do any serious running for 20 years until he came to Nova and was told by a fellow engineer that he was not running correctly. He also read two books on "barefoot" running techniques, changed his running style, and has not had any problems with his knees since doing so.

From 2007 to 2009, Peterson worked with the Nova Biomedical Corporation Boston Marathon medical staff at the finish lines. He decided to switch gears this year and run in his first ever Boston Marathon.

"I ran for fun, and for my fellow team members at Nova Biomedical working the Medical Tent at the finish line," said Peterson. "At the end, I stopped by for a couple of minutes to say hi to the team and thank them for working on their day off."

Along with the Nova, Peterson was cheered on at the finish line by his wife, Teresa, who has been supportive of his running ever since he started.

Peterson is only taking a couple days off from running before training again for the Providence Marathon, which is in only a week from now on May 2nd. He ran in the marathon last year and hopes to reach his successful goal time this year.

In September, Peterson plans to run in the run in the "Reach The Beach Relay," which is a 200 mile relay race from Franconia Notch, NH to Hampton Beach, NH. Over 425 teams are competing this year, with over four people in each team.

McMahon crosses one experience off her list

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Last summer, Wilmington resident Colleen McMahon was reflecting over her life and wanted to spice it up a bit - be more active, try to make a difference and try to do something that thousands of people can't do.

"It was last summer and I don't know if it's because I'm getting older but I wanted to start taking advantage of things that life offers you," she said. "Kind of like a Bucket List. So I decided to run the Boston Marathon."

Like a scene out of the Movie "The Bucket List," where Jack Nicholson and Morgan Freeman wrote down on a piece of paper all of the things they wanted to accomplish before they both passed away, McMahon wanted to do something that would not only be beneficial to herself, but help so many other people. Once she decided that finishing the marathon would be the ultimate quest, she started that mission by training for it, both on the local pavements, and through many family members and friends who helped her raise over $6,100 for the Brigham and Women's Hospital.

On Monday, McMahon, 25 and a 2002 graduate from WHS, officially completed her first Boston Marathon, coming over the finish line with a time of 4:46.46.

"It went really well," she said. "It was such a great experience. I ended up running with a friend Meg Macumber of Westford, and we were teamed up together and we just pushed each other the whole way. I know it sounds stupid and corny but the crowd was so amazing. We had our names on our shirts and people were just yelling our names and it was so great. They helped us so much - they helped us get through Heart Break Hill and those tough hills. When we hit Boston College with four miles left, there were seriously about a thousand people right there cheering you on, and among those were a lot of family and friends who I didn't even know were coming. It was one of the best experiences in my entire life."

McMahon and Macumber joined together both raising money for the Brigham and Women's Hospital. The minimum amount each of them could raise was $3,500 and McMahon nearly doubled that amount, a remarkable feat of its own, nevermind trekking 26.2 miles through the city of Boston.

"I've always done 5Ks and there were times I struggled finishing those," she said. "So the thought of running 26.2 miles seemed so crazy but after you do it, I just can't say enough about it and what a wonderful experience it was."

She said that because of all of the people she became friends with, especially Macumber who really helped her get through the rough patches.

"There were times when you said I want to stop and take the train home," she said. "But the people there supporting you just always seemed to get me through it. Plus you start to think about all of the training you did, all of the money you tried to raise and all of the hard work you put in, so you didn't want to give up and you couldn't give up. I was all sweaty, wearing a Fanny Pack and I know we looked all gross, but we were having so much fun. Meg and I celebrated at each mile marker and every time we entered a new town. I mean we went through Framingham, Newton, Hopkinton and I don't think during that time I really could comprehend exactly what we were doing. I mean the entire scene was incredible and it was so great that we could kind of sit back and really enjoy it all. We were going at a comfortable pace, so we could see all of our friends no matter where they were."

At different points of the race, McMahon found many of her friends who came to support her and the other runners. Then there were times when she was feeling ill, or banged up and she leaned on those spectators to guide her along.

"Around mile 20 I started to feel nauseous and I wasn't even at Heart Break Hill yet," she said. "It was just going through a mental defeat. I started walking and I just hit a wall. Psychologically I think I was starting to think too much about Heart Break Hill. I never thought I'd be able to do it. And it wasn't even that bad. I got through it. Then after that, I don't think I was ever as excited to see a whole bunch of drunk college kids in my entire life. I knew that I was just about to get to the 25th mile and I started to realize how crazy it all was, and how I was about to get to the finish line."

Approaching the finish line, McMahon and Macumber ended up separating for a bit before reconnecting just about before running the last few meters, and finishing their first ever Boston Marathon.

"It was amazing," she said. "There was two tenths of a mile left and you could see the finish line," she said. "I'd had never been so happy in my entire life. There was a moment I was walking but I had nothing left. And even though I had nothing left, I wasn't going to walk across the finish line, so I gave it one last rush, giving it everything I had to get over the finish line. Once I got over, I stopped for a second and it was just such a shock to me that I did it, and I just felt so fortunate to be a part of the entire experience."

From there she located her parents, Joe - the WHS Girls' Hockey coach - and Elizabeth.

"I found them and we hung out for a while," she said. "I was standing in a foil blanket for the longest time. I didn't even change. I was basking in the glory and just wanted to take it all in."

Many great stories from the local runners

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Over 23,000 people started, participated and crossed the finish line during Monday's 114th annual Boston Marathon. Each one of them has a story to tell, an exciting story. Whether it be the elite runners coming from Kenya, Ethiopia or here in the States whether it be from California, Illinois or Florida, those better runners came here to compete and try to get a hold of the cash prizes. There were the wheelchair competitors, who inspire us all for what they accomplish, going all 26.2 miles, up those hills, pushing their arms and being so dead tired but all of that being worth it all once they crossed the infamous finish line.

Then there's the average Joe and Kate. The people who also come fly in from all over, who train with long runs on the sidewalks of their suburban towns, or in the City Streets whether it be going on dry marathon runs, or within Manhattan, Chicago or Fort Lauderdale, they came from all over, all with a great story to tell. Maybe they were running to lose weight, or were running because they lost a bet, or running in honor of a lost loved one, or were running as part of one of the 24 different charities the Marathon recognized, whether it be Dana Farber, the Jimmy Fund, the Arthritis Foundation or what have you - again they all had a story to tell. Some uplifting, some very sad and so many runners who were putting their bodies through such pain in honor for a loved one who was sick and since passed, or who are currently ill with cancer and fighting through their own sickness and then there's those who ran in honor or a child or a loved one who has overcome chemotherapy and are in remission.

No matter the circumstance, over 23,000 runners were televised live, going up and down hills, grimacing in pain and smiling when it was officially done, knowing they achieved greatness. And among those 23,000 were 28 locals, including 17 from Wilmington and 11 more from Tewksbury, who pulled off the incredible feat, who trained so hard, who raised so much money and who all deserve so much credit for going through what they have over the last few months to prepare and endure this special day.

Last week the Town Crier featured several runners who were about to participate including Wilmington Middle School teacher Lauren Izzicupo, originally from Stoneham who now lives in Melrose, who helped raised several thousand dollars as she ran in honor of her late mother Janice, and a middle school student, Emma Ceres, a student who overcame her battle with Lymphoma. Izzicupo finished at 4:30.44.

We also told the story of Stephanie Ackerman, a former WHS track runner, who raised thousands of dollars to run on behalf of the Neely Foundation in honor of her friend's daughter and she finished with a time of 5:05.35. There was Tom Peterson of Wilmington, who was a volunteer at the medical tents every year of the race, only to put on his running shoes this time around, and actually be the one attended too after the race was over. He was officially clocked at 4:25.35.

In Tewksbury we share stories this week from Jennifer Sick who raised thousands of dollars for the Arthritis Foundation, and there's longtime Town Crier pal Mike Doherty, the big hearted 40-year-old, who we feature often, who completed another journey for the Dana Farber Institute. Sick came in at 4:51.24.

And when the race was all over on Monday, 29 locals including Izzicupo completed the 114th annual Boston Marathon. They went the entire 26.2 miles, and two veterans led the way. In Wilmington, Simonetta Piergentilli finished first in her female bracket and 45th out of all women competitors, and was 751st overall with a time of 2:54.17, which trailed top female finisher Teyba Erkesso, who came across at 2:26.11. Tewksbury resident, Kevin Christie, 52, who is also featured in this week's Tewksbury edition, was the top male finisher coming in at a very impressive time of 3:04.42. He was 68th in his age bracket - another amazing story.

Five other locals finished under the four hour mark including Tewksbury resident Kevin Moore (3:13.32), Beth Cunningham (3:28.45) and Doherty (3:58.36) while Wilmington residents John Gorvin (3:41.46) and Ken McGowan (3:51.52) two other long time veterans of the streets, also accomplished that feat.

There were the newcomers. Wilmington resident Emily Dorrance, a social worker who raised money for children in need, was a former WHS soccer captain, who said she thrilled to go through such a great experience and she came in just over the four hour mark at 4:08.18. Colleen McMahon, who also went to school with Dorrance, was a first year participant and she came in at 4:46.46.

Other Wilmington residents who finished the race included: Roberta Cook, 43 (4:13.22), Janelle Cann, 32, (4:15.38), buddies Chris Cassidy and Timothy Smith (4:19.51 and 4:23.52); Ryan Covino, 29 (4:36.45), Robert Danehy, 46, (4:40.15); Paula Knibbs, 41 (4:40.44), Paulo Cataldi, 38 (4:44.13), Theresa Days, 40 (5:17.20) and Neil Buckley, 38 (5:51.47).

In Tewksbury the other runners include: Kathleen Charbonnier, 49 (4:00.29), Gavin Long, 27 (4:40.31), Mark Gioia, 44 (4:51.37), Erin Lynch, 33 (5:00.51), Peter Derovee, 39 (5:00.51) and Kellie Mitchell, 44 (5:14.13).

Congratulations goes out to every single one of the runners who completed the 26.2 mile journey, in particular the 29 locals from Wilmington and Tewksbury, and one from Melrose.

ran the marathon only for charity, and said he would have never been able to finish the race if it wasn't for the cheers he got throughout the event.

"The best part of running for the DFMC team was all the support before, during, and after the event," said Buckley. "I enjoyed the people that line the event, cheer you on, run with you when you're struggling, and thank you as you run by, as they're well wished and help you finish."

Buckley added that he enjoyed everyone who was grateful to him at the end of the race.

"Every single one of them seemed appreciative of the charity that I ran for," said Buckley. "It definitely made me feel like I was running for something other than the marathon. I don't think I could have set this kind of goal without some driving force behind it."

Buckley graduated from Wilmington High School but he never competed in his any sports for the Wildcats, as he was more interested in music and cars. In fact, Buckley has never been a runner up until this point in his life, and he chose to run this Boston Marathon alone.

"Since I was certain I would be slow and miserable I thought it would be better to suffer in silence than to share that experience with a friend," he said jokingly.

Many of Buckley's family members cheered him on at the race, including his girlfriend Pati, and his children Caleigh (16), Megan (15), Brenna (11), and Ashlyn (7). Buckley works at Partners Healthcare, and many of his co-workers also attended to cheer him on.

Buckley is not sure whether he will run again in the Boston Marathon next year, but he is optimistic about it. On November 20th, 2010, Buckley will be in Arizona biking in the El Tour de Tucson, which is one of the largest road bicycling events in the United States.

Buckley will cycle 109 miles in the event with friends for charity. It will be the second consecutive year he is competing in the event, as also he took part in it during the fall of 2009.

The DFMC 2010 fundraising minimum commitment is $3,250. DFMC directs 100% of funds raised to the Claudia Adams Barr Program, which enables scientists at the leading edge of discovery to achieve better cure rates and to enhance patients' quality of life.

Run a Pleasant Mile Road Race Sunday

Keep those running shoes on your feet

By LAUREN SPENCER
Sports Correspondent

Peter Molloy and the Tewksbury Boys' and Girls' Track and Cross-Country Programs are looking forward to another successful Run a Pleasant Mile/5K road race, as the always-enjoyable fundraiser will be held this Sunday April 25 at Tewksbury Memorial High School.

Molloy, who coaches cross-country and track at TMHS, has been organizing the Run a Pleasant Mile/5K road race for the past four years. The race has been held for over ten years, and was previously organized by Bob McDougall, a former TMHS track and cross-country coach who was recently inducted into the Tewksbury Memorial High School Hall of Fame.

"Coach Molloy has been great to put together Run a Pleasant Mile for all the student track athletes at TMHS. He has worked really hard to make this the best event possible," said Rachel Hepler, who is a captain of the girls' spring track and field team.

Run by the boys' and girls' track teams, as well as their parents and the coaching staff, the event consists of two races: a mile race for anyone under the age of 12, which begins at 9:30, as well as 5K road race for all ages, beginning at 10am. The mile race is run on the campus of Tewksbury Memorial High School. Parents can always see their kids on the course, and the distance runners on the TMHS boys' and girls' track teams run with the kids.

All proceeds go towards the boys' and girls' track and cross country teams. The primary benefit is to raise money for scholarships. Over the past three years, the program has raised over $12,000 years. Proceeds also go towards paying for out of state trips, paying for equipment needs, as well as towards paying for clinics and summer camps for student-athletes.

The race sees participants predominantly from Tewksbury, but runners from surrounding towns such as Woburn, Billerica, Andover, and Lowell have also come out. Participation levels have continued to increase each year.

"Our first year we had 46 participants, and our second year we had a little over 70," said Molloy. "Last year we exploded to 140 [participants]; this year we already have 25 more pre-registered runners than we did last year, and we still have a couple days to go.

"Our parents group does a good job of advertising for the race. Now that people know that it's a consistent event, they can plan for it. I think we put on a good race; we organize it well, and word of mouth spreads."

Molloy said that so much help has been provided by a handful of people.

"[Parent volunteers] Nancy Toland and Jan Tino have done a lot of work to organize the race," said Molloy. "Brackett and Colleen Tucker, Joe Corriveau, the Mahan Family, and Mary Zelton are our solid group of parents, but all the parents on the team help out in some way or another as well."

Kelsey Parker, also a captain of the girls' track and field team, said, "I think [Run a Pleasant Mile] is a good opportunity for the community to come out and have a great time while supporting the Tewksbury Track team."

With prizes awarded to the top male and female finishers, as well as to the top three age group winners, and refreshments on sale to all participants, the track program anticipates this year's Run a Pleasant Mile to be a fun, pleasant event for the whole community.

Cali Pepper has big week on the track

By JAMIE POTE,
MIKE IPPOLITO &
MIKE GIANNATTASIO

Cali Pepper highlighted the Wildcats Girls Track Team's performances over the past week. After the team was defeated by Ipswich last Thursday by a score of 92-53 which included taking three events and qualifying for the state meet in all three, she then took home three medals during Saturday's Red Raider Invitational Meet held at Lowell High School. There she finished second in the long jump (13-10), was part of the fourth place 4x100 relay team along with Heather Kealos, Cat Parrella and Maye Randell, who combined to finish at 54.80 seconds, and Pepper also placed in the 400 meter run.

Parrella and Lauren Bennett also placed with the former taking sixth in the high jump (4-8) and the latter also taking a sixth in the javelin, tossing 71-3 feet.

"Competing Saturday really shows the spirit these girls (who placed have) as well as Erin Cowden, Melanie Folk, Jess Maienza, Lori Fletcher and Savannah Hubbard (who all represented) Wilmington. Kudos (to all of them)," said head coach Tom Bradley.

In the Cape Ann League Meet against Ipswich, Pepper finished first in the 200 (27.0), 400 (62.4) and long jump (16-2) to take 15 of the team's 53 points. Also taking first places included Nikki Sirignano in the two mile (12:38), Parrella in the pole vault (6-6) and Randell in the 100 (13.6). Parrella also took a third in the high jump (4-6) and Randell also swiped a point with a third place in the triple jump (31-3).

Coming through with second places included Amy

Fisher in the 400 hurdles, Erin Cowden in the discus (72-11), Julie Braid in the triple jump and Lauren Bennett in the javelin. Savannah Hubbard finished in third place in the 400 hurdles, while Alicia Days (pole vault), Paige Bennett (100 meter hurdles), Lori Fletcher (mile) and Melanie Folk (discus) also all finished with a third place in their respective event.

"We have a long way to go but expect to make real strides," said Bradley about his team's 0-3 start.

Wilmington will be back in action with two road meets next week, going to Hamilton-Wenham on Monday and North Reading on Thursday, April 28th.

Boys Track

The Wilmington High boys track team picked up their first win of the season last Thursday afternoon in a meet against Ipswich.

The Wildcats downed Ipswich by a score of 82 1/2 - 62 1/2 and had several outstanding performances along the way as the team continues to improve in the early going of the season, and they now hold a 1-2 overall record.

"The kids were pleased to get their first win, as was I," Wilmington coach Bob Cripps said. "I thought they did very well."

The field events produced several winners for the Wildcats and even when they were not able to win an event they were still able to come up with points.

In the javelin event the Wildcats took first and third place with senior Tom Valente winning the event in with a throw of 135-0, while fellow senior Liam Gately followed in 130-7.

The Wildcats took first and second in both the long jump and the triple jump with junior Marc Shibilila taking first with a jump of 19-3 followed by senior Caleb Rogers at 17-8 1/2, while in the triple jump senior Marty Bamberg won with a jump of 39-4 and Rogers took second at 38-8. Bamberg's jump left him just eight inches short of qualifying for the state meet.

"I expect both Bamberg and Rogers to qualify for the state meet," Cripps said.

James Marra took first in the pole vault with a height of 8'5, while Gordie Fitch was second in the shot put with a throw of 37-7 and Lance Flaherty was second in the discus at 169 feet. That throw was seven feet better than Flaherty's throw earlier in the week. Shibilila tied for third in the high jump with a leap of 5'4.

The running events got off to a good start for the Wildcats in the 400 hurdles with Jon Weber leading the way with a time of 66.1 and former two miler Shayne Kinsella following close behind in second place 67.8.

"Neither one of them had even run this event before this season, so they are doing very well," Cripps said.

The Wildcats then took second and third in the two mile with senior Kevin Flaherty finishing in 11:09, while freshman Erik Alatalo came in at 11:36, and in the high hurdles they got a third place finish from Anthony Desimone in a time of 19.3.

In the 100 dash, Shibilila was second in a time of 11.9, while sophomore Ed DeLucia took third in 12.3, and in the mile junior Zach Sears took third with a personal best time of 5:06 and in 800 meters senior Joe Warren was second in Wilmington freshman, Hannah Reynolds (back row), and her AAU basketball team, the NH Rivals, based out of Plaistow, NH won the championship game against Mass Premier from Foxboro. The Rivals will play in Saco, ME and Bristol, RI before heading to the Junior Nationals in DC in July. The elite team members were hand selected by Coach Julie Tardif and Rivals' Director, Scott Hazelton. (courtesy photo).

2:12.9 while Kevin Flaherty was third in 2:16.3.

The Wildcats had some great success in the 200 and the 400, getting a sweep of the 400 behind Rogers in a time of 52.3, Valente in 53.4, which qualified him for the state meet and Gately in 55.2. In the 200, the Wildcats took first and second behind Marty Bamberg's time of 24.1, followed by Rich Barry's 24.8.

The relay events also went very well for the Wildcats, as they won the 4 x 100 in a time of 47.5 seconds behind the efforts of DeLucia, Anthony Fino, Rich Barry and Shibilila and also easily took the 4x400 in a time of 3:53.9 behind Bamberg, Gately, Valente and Rogers.

The Wildcats are off until next Monday when they will take on Hamilton-Wenham and Lynnfield in a tri-meet.

Girls Lacrosse

The Wilmington High School girls' lacrosse team suffered a loss to Hamilton/Wenham last Thursday to drop to 2-4 this season.

Hamilton-Wenham beat the Wilmington 17-8, as the offense for the Generals was too superior to the Wildcats.

Ally Robbins had another outstanding game for Wilmington, as she scored four goals. Holly Niemic also scored a goal, and players Kaitlyn McGuire and Kellie Moon each had one. Jacqui Lyman contributed to the offense with three assists.

Goalie Nicole Luz saw over 33 shots and came up with 16 saves. Defensively, Ashley Gonzalez and Danielle Polcari each caused a turnover.

Wilmington has 11 days in between games, so the team is working hard in practice this week. The Wildcats return to action in a game at Triton on Monday.

Boys Lacrosse

The Wilmington High

School boys' lacrosse team is off to a 0-5 start, but the team has shown improvements in every game this season.

The Wildcats were defeated by Woburn 8-1 on Monday, but the score of the game was very close until the fourth quarter. The Bulls were up only 4-1 at halftime and 5-1 at the end of the third quarter.

Scoring the only goal for the Wildcats was Zack Rosa, as the senior captain has been having a terrific season. Goalie Andrew Camillieri also had a great game for Wilmington in net.

Coach Mike Fay said the team has been working hard all season and he is optimistic they can turn their record around.

"We have lots of good players on this team, and we just have to be more competitive with the ball in order to win games," said Fay. "Our defense has been great but our offense needs to improve."

Youth Soccer Camps attract over 50 kids

Patriot's Day could not be a more symbolic day to kick off Wilmington Youth Soccer's British Soccer Camp. During the school vacation week, over 50 boys and girls will be participating in full and half day camps with WYSA's training partner, Challenger Sports. Challenger Sports runs over 3,000 soccer camps annually in both the U.S. and Canada and is the largest provider of soccer camps in North America.

Joe Haddad, WYSA Board member and Director of Player and Coach Development states "Wilmington Youth Soccer is committed to bringing the best talent to our Town to educate and develop both our players and coaches." "Camps like these are along with our World Cup and team training programs truly benefit the kids that play soccer in Wilmington." WYSA will also be hosting two additional camps in August. Please see the Wilmington Youth Soccer website for additional information.

The Wildcats were supposed to play a game against Manchester this past Friday, but it was canceled due to rain. The game has been postponed for May 5th at the Woburn Street School field. Wilmington goes for their first win of the season Thursday at Dracut High School.

WHS Softball

After falling to Tewksbury in the season opened last week, the Wilmington High School Softball team took a step backward on Sunday with its second game of the season against Shawsheen Tech. The Rams came away with an 8-3 victory.

"We had six physical errors, at least four mental errors, we missed signs and simply put we just didn't come to play," said head coach

Audrey Cabral Pini. "It was just terrible and probably one of the worst games in the history of the program. We have a senior laden team so you would think they would come more prepared for games."

Taylor Hanley laced a double and Brittney McLaughlin and Emily Crannell had singles for the lone highlights for Wilmington.

The next day the team rebounded and won its first game of the season, a 6-3 decision over Lowell in another non-league game. McLaughlin led the attack with three hits including two doubles and a triple, and Chelsie Babcock tossed a four hitter on the mound to notch the victory, and also scored three runs as the team's lead-off hitter.

Wilmington faced

Masconomet on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime. On Thursday the Wildcats face North Andover at 10:00 am at home.

WHS Baseball

The Wildcats fell for the first time this season to neighbor Tewksbury, 8-1, in a nonleague game played on Thursday. Redmen coach Ron Drouin captured his 200th win as head coach in this contest. The Wildcats are very busy this week with five games in eight days including a trip to Wakefield on Thursday, home matches against Tewksbury on Friday morning, Hamilton-Wenham on Saturday morning, Ipswich on Tuesday afternoon, before traveling to North Reading on Thursday afternoon.

Rams Softball team defeats Wilmington, and remains undefeated

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech softball team is off to a perfect 4-0 (3-0 CAC) start to the season and on Sunday afternoon at Shawsheen they picked up their most impressive win of the season with an 8-3 win over rival Wilmington in a game that featured a complete team effort in all aspects of the game.

The Lady Rams were led by the pitching efforts of senior Sara Elwell of Tewksbury, who pitched a complete game without giving up an earned run, allowing three hits and walking no one. Offensively they were led by the efforts of senior Jenna Zechner who had a three run homer and five RBI, while Kristina Lees of Wilmington had two hits and a pair of runs scored and junior Brooke Mallahan of Tewksbury had a double and a single.

"It was by far our best game of the season," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "They were the best team we have faced all season and our girls really stepped up."

As great as the pitching and hitting were, Buckley was most impressed with the effort of her team defense, which other than a few hiccups in a three error sixth inning, played flawlessly to help the team to victory.

"The girls played unbelievable defense," Buckley said. "I could not have been prouder. They came ready to play and made some great stops. And when they could not actually make a play, they at least managed to knock the ball down. We got a little rattled in the sixth and made some errors, but that is just one of those things that happen."

One thing that does not happen for opponents of the Lady Rams this season has been drawing walks, as Elwell has had great control all year, and Sunday was no exception. With the win, Elwell improved to 4-0 on the season, having pitched a complete game shutout in Shawsheen's 13-0 win over Northeast last Thursday.

"Sara pitched great," Buckley said. "She is not going to strike out a lot, but she also does not walk a lot. If she lets our defense play we can play with anybody."

Of course also helping the cause for Shawsheen has been an outstanding offense that continued its assault on opposing pitching on Sunday, with Zechner leading the way with her third home run of the year, giving her 14 RBI and a .538 average on the season, while Mallahan is leading the team with an incredible .706 average after her two hit day. As a team, the Lady Rams are batting .500 overall.

"(Zechner) is the ideal example of a player who fixed her swing. She was having a hard time with faster pitching, but she adjusted to it," Buckley said. "She hits line drives. Even her home runs have been line drives that go out of the park."

"(Mallahan) has been pounding the ball," Buckley said. "She's got quick hands and can hit to all fields. As a junior she is really coming into her own. It is great to see her have this kind of success because she has worked tirelessly to improve."

Junior catcher and leadoff hitter Ally Trayah of Tewksbury actually saw her average go down in the win over Wilmington, as she was hitting .833 going into the game and dipped to .667 after her 1-for-3 effort with a double.

"Ally led the team in hitting last season so we know what to expect from her and she has been outstanding," Buckley said. "She sets the table for us which is huge with the big hitters coming up behind her."

Shortstop Arianna Medeiros of Tewksbury has also been off to a strong start, and she had a big game with three hits in Shawsheen's 13-0 win over Northeast.

"As our starting shortstop, Arianna is a big key to what we do," Buckley said. "She is hitting the ball well. She is a good kid who works hard. She still has to get used to the speed of the game as just a freshman but she is going to be a great player for us."

Other top hitters to this point in the season for Shawsheen have been Kristina Lees with a .500 average including a double and a home run on the season and Sara Elwell, who in addition to her pitching exploits is also batting .667 on the season.

"Up and down the lineup we are hitting the ball, which is something we need to do," Buckley said.

Baseball

The Shawsheen baseball team is off to a 3-3 (3-1 in the CAC Large) start on the season, having won three of their past four games after an 0-3 start. The key to the Rams resurgence has been a lineup that has been scorching the ball as of late, even as their three game winning streak came to an end in a hear breaking 9-8 loss to CAC rival Whittier on Tuesday morning on the road.

Against Whittier, the Rams led 8-1 headed to the bottom of the seventh only to see the Wildcats come up with eight runs, with the big blow being a three run homer, to send the Rams down to defeat in painful fashion.

Leading the way for Shawsheen, which out-hit the Wildcats 13-7 Guy DePlacido who had two doubles, a single, an RBI, and two runs scored, leadoff batter Kevin White of Tewksbury with a double, a single, an RBI and a run scored, and Sean Hannon who had 2 doubles, an RBI and two runs scored.

In the Rams previous game a 7-6 win over Northeast, their outstanding hitting helped them hand Northeast a devastating loss as they came all the way back from a 6-1 second inning deficit, and capped the rally with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to steal the victory.

"Northeast jumped out to a big lead, but we battled back and shut them down after the second inning," Rams coach Jim Sullivan said. "We just kept pecking away and then we had the big seventh inning. It kind of speaks to the character of the team that they did not quit."

The biggest hit of the game came from sophomore Steve Reynolds of Tewksbury who had a pinch hit two run double to tie the game in the seventh inning. Sullivan knew it was a big situation for his young player, but he also knew that Reynolds had the ability to come through with the big hit.

"That was a huge hit for a kid who is just a sophomore," Sullivan said. "That is a pressure packed situation, but I did not hesitate in bringing him in. He has had a good season so far and I had every confidence that he could come through for us and he did a great job."

Senior Chris Rogers also came up with a huge hit for the Rams in the seventh, driving in Reynolds with the winning run. Rogers had been 0-for-3 heading into the seventh, but he came through when his team needed him most. Rogers has usually been a big contributor on the mound as the Rams top hurler this season, but Sullivan was happy to see him come through big with the bat as well.

"Chris has been counted on in a lot of ways this season," Sullivan said. "Not only with his pitching, but he has been doing well in the field when he is not pitching and he came through with a big hit for us in this game. It is good to see that he has developed into a well rounded player."

Making the Rams comeback possible was the pitching of senior hurler Sean Perkins who came on in relief in the second inning and pitched five innings of scoreless, three hit baseball to keep the Rams in the game.

"Sean is not overpowering, but he keeps the ball down and puts it where he wants to put it," Sullivan said. "He allowed us to crawl back into the game with the way he pitched."

Boys Lacrosse

The Shawsheen boys lacrosse team is off to its usual strong start this season with a 7-0 (5-0 CAC) record to this point, extending their league winning streak to 37 straight games between the now defunct Mass Technical Lacrosse League and this year's CAC.

Most recently the Rams picked up two more league wins with a 14-2 home win over Minuteman last Wednesday and a 21-2 win on the road over Northeast on Friday. As well as the Rams are playing, coach Chuck Baker knows his team must continue to improve.

"The team is playing well, but the opponents are not overly strong," Baker said. "Our real test will come when we get back from vacation when we have St. Mary's on Monday (26th) and a make-up with Marblehead on the 28th."

Regardless of opponent, the Rams have been getting outstanding efforts from junior attack Ryan Woolaver of Tewksbury as well as senior midfielder Ryan Hunt of Wilmington. Woolaver had a hat trick and five assists against Minuteman, while Hunt had a goal, and in the Northeast win Woolaver had two goals and three assists and Hunt added a pair of goals.

Their efforts, along with those of senior attack Cory Foss, who is leading the team in scoring, have made the Rams nearly impossible to stop so far this season.

"Woolaver is playing very well," Baker said. "He and Foss are neck and neck for team point leaders. He has been dishing out assists and has a great attitude that he is bringing to the field. I expected this from Hunt and he is proving to be a great leader and working harder and harder as the season progresses."

Several other local players are also playing very well for the Rams, with junior attack Erik DellAnno of Wilmington potting a hat trick against Northeast and freshman attacks Tim Hunt of Wilmington and Scott Denney each adding a pair of goals.

"DellAnno was hurt earlier in the season and missed a game, then missed a game after a scrap against St. Mary's. He is doing a great job and adds more athleticism to the attack position," Baker said. "Denney, just like Tim Hunt, both freshmen, are taking advantage of every minute they get and are going to be great players for the future."

Junior defenseman Dylan Leone of Tewksbury added a pair of goals in the Northeast win, while junior goalie Frankie Mearles of Wilmington made four saves for the win over Northeast and 11 saves against Minuteman. In each game sophomore Rich Etter of Tewksbury came on in relief and also played very well, making a pair of saves without a goal allowed against Northeast and stopping five of seven shots against Minuteman.

Girls Lacrosse

The Shawsheen girls lacrosse team played an exciting game against Austin Prep on Monday afternoon on the road, finishing in a 10-10 tie that left them with a 2-2 overall record to this point in the season under first year coach Herb Post.

The matchup with Austin Prep could not have been closer with the teams trading goals throughout the contest. Shawsheen put 25 shots on net, while Austin Prep had 21. The Rams trailed 6-5 at the half and the second half was just as evenly played.

"Austin Prep and Shawsheen Tech were a great matchup, although I am still looking for the team to get better defensively," Post said. "This game was back and forth all the way. I don't believe either team ever led by more than two goals."

The Lady Rams were led by four goals from junior attack Jess Houghton, who has been leading the team in scoring all season. Helping her cause in this contest was freshman Katelyn Gordon of Tewksbury, who came up from the junior varsity for the game and potted a pair of goals.

Post was pleased with the efforts of both his veteran star as well as the newcomer.

"Jess is a complete player. Her ability and knowledge of the game are second to none. What's even more impressive is watching her teach the game to her teammates in practice," Post said. "With three starters out of the lineup we have called on Katelyn to fill in. She has tremendous goal scoring ability and is starting to get comfortable at the varsity level."

Junior goalies Josie Taylor had 15 saves in the win for the Lady Rams and Post was impressed with both her plays, as well as her counterpart from Austin Prep.

"Both goalies were tremendous," Post said. "Josie and the Austin Prep goalie were co-MVP's in this game. Both were on their game."

Other goal scorers for the Lady Rams were Kelsey Farragher, Amy Decelles of Tewksbury, Molly Hentz and Kimberly Barriss, while Holly Zechner played well defensively.

Foley sticking to success at Plymouth State

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Tewksbury's Jenn Foley had the game of her career as she helped lead the Plymouth State lacrosse team to a 19-5 drubbing of UMass Dartmouth last Saturday.

Foley, a sophomore midfielder, had a career-high five goals to lead the Panthers to the Little East Conference win. The Panthers now sport a record of 4-4. Foley has started all eight of her team's games this year. She has 10 goals and two assists. Plymouth State will travel to Framingham State on Thursday.

Brendan Stokes smacked his first home run of the year in Northeastern University's 8-5 win over UMass Amherst last Wednesday. Stokes, a senior first baseman from Tewksbury, launched his solo dinger over the Campanelli Field's left field fence in the fifth inning. Stokes has been batting fifth in the lineup for much of the season. He is hitting .275 with 12 runs and 12 RBI so far this year. The Huskies will take on BC in the final of the Beanpot on Wednesday.

Wilmington's Carlton Lentini had an RBI groundout in Lasell College's 5-2 loss to Johnson & Wales in the second game of a doubleheader on Sunday. The sophomore shortstop also had a single in the game. He has started all 23 of his team's games this year and has a team-leading 16 RBIs.

Al Montalto had a double, run and RBI for the Nichols College baseball team as they split a doubleheader with Endicott College on Monday. Montalto, a senior infielder from Wilmington, had his team's only run and only extra base hit in the first game, a 2-1 loss. He had an RBI groundout in the second game, a 9-8 win. Montalto has played in 26 games, starting 25 of them. He has eight stolen bases, which is second on the team. Nichols will play host to Elms on Thursday.

Senior righty Matt Monico threw an inning of scoreless relief as the UMass Lowell baseball team ended a five-game losing streak with an 8-3 win over Assumption. The Tewksbury High graduate has been a rock out of the bullpen, making a team-leading 14 appearances for the River Hawks. He has a record of 3-2 with an ERA of 2.47. His ERA is second on the team.

Tewksbury's Chris Noyes had two assists for the Assumption College lacrosse team in its 8-7 loss to American International College on Tuesday night.

The sophomore midfielder, a graduate of Central Catholic, has started 10 out of 10 games this year. He has five goals and four assists. Last year he was named the Northeast-10 Conference "Rookie of the Year" and also was a member of the Northeast-10 Conference All-Rookie team.

Wilmington's Erin McMahon earned her second victory of the year for the Merrimack women's tennis team as they clinched a play-off berth with an 8-1 win over Assumption on Sunday. McMahon and Courtney Garvey won a doubles match 8-6. The Warriors clinched the No. 8 seed in the Northeast-10 Conference Tournament with the win. They will face top-ranked Southern New Hampshire University on Wednesday in Manchester.

A number of local runners competed in the B.A.A. 5K in Boston. Laurie Richmond was the only Tewksbury native to take part in the event, finishing in 1780th place with a time of 27:32.

A dozen Wilmington residents also competed. Paul Dwyer finished in 663rd place with a time of 23:28. Michael Cavallaro placed 890th at 25:36. Terri Gallego-O'Rourke finished in 1183rd place at 26:10. Catherine Kane finished in 1473rd place with a time of 26:32. Katie Riley was right behind her in 1501st place with a time of 26:36. Daniel Romanzo's time of 27:39 was good enough for 1832nd place. Anne Romanzo wasn't far behind in 1839th place with a time of 27:40. Mike Tentindo, Nicole Romanzo, Linda Romanzo, Elisa Maglione and Amanda Miles also took part in the race.

The Run a Pleasant Mile 5K will be held in Tewksbury at 10 a.m. at TMHS. Those interested should contact Peter Molloy at 978-996-0173 or pmolcoach@yahoo.com.

EARTH DAY

Two decades of Earth Day celebrated
this Saturday

By GORDON VINCENT

What started as an idea in a parking lot outside Woburn City Hall two decades ago has mushroomed into one of the region's most anticipated events, as the Woburn Mall will celebrate Earth Day on Saturday (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.)

Nearly two dozen environmentally-friendly organizations, businesses, entertainers and exhibitors will be on-hand for the event, which has something for everyone in the family and the community.

The origin of the Earth Day festivities in Woburn was during one of the city's periodic recycling events, which before curbside pickup started in the city, were held in the parking lot of City Hall.

"It was really the idea of (then-Woburn City Council members) Paul (Medeiros), Joe Simas and Greg Kaknes (of Landscape Express)," said Lori Medeiros, Division Manager of Property Management for KGI Properties, and the General Manager of the Woburn Mall.

"There really was no recycling going on in the city, and Paul and Joe thought having something on Earth Day would be a good idea," said Lori Medeiros.

Paul Medeiros served eight terms on the City Council, and was usually a member of the council's standing Recycling Committee, which later initiated a collection event at City Hall for tires, batteries and propane tanks.

For the past few years, the Medeiroses have also been heavily-involved in an off-price monthly recycling drive that collects appliances, televisions, computer monitors and other devices. The proceeds are disbursed to local charitable and service organizations.

"It (recycling) came upon me through Paul; it's something he's always been on," said Lori. "He and (Simas) really made recycling an issue when they were on the council, and I just kind of followed suit."

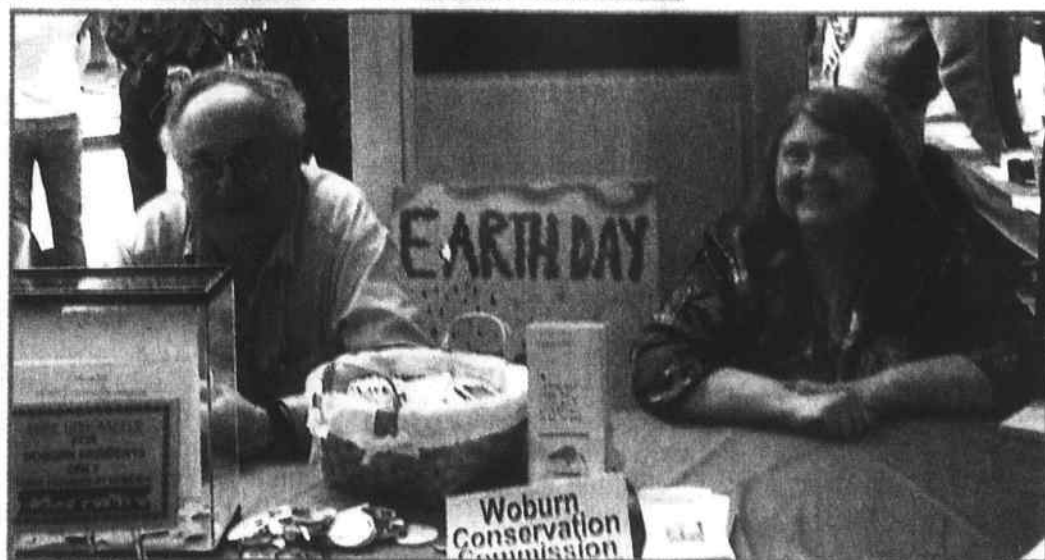

Lori Medeiros' roots run deep in the community, and her dedication to the city is profound. A Woburn native, she is a charter member of the city's Commission for Handicapped & Disabled Citizens Committee, a non-legislative branch of city government which assists municipal agencies with Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliance issues.

She was also heavily-involved in her husband's political campaigns, and last fall was part of the team that helped elect Mayor Scott Galvin, Paul's former colleague on the council and a close friend of the Medeiroses.

For the past 17 years, she has worked at the Woburn Mall, which in the past few years has undergone a transformation into a bright, gleaming shopping center with several new destination stores like Sports Authority,

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"Date Night" a fun date night!

"DATE NIGHT" stars Steve Carell and Tina Fey as a long-married couple who decide that their marriage is in a rut. They decide to go into Manhattan for an evening out to add some spark to their marriage. This is a familiar plot but with Carell and Fey it's turns into great entertainment.

"DATE NIGHT"
GRADE: ***

The idea behind "Date Night" isn't anything special. Romantic comedies featuring couples who end up stumbling through one misadventure after another are almost as old as cinema itself. But in this case its the strength of the two leads, and the superb casting of the supporting players, that helps "Date Night" achieve its goal of being one hell of a night on the town.

Meet the Fosters - years of marriage, and the familiarity that goes along with them, have placed Phil (Steve Carell) and Claire (Tina Fey) in a bit of a rut. Neither appears unhappy, just all-too-ready to keep sliding along in the same routine of their lives in suburban New Jersey.

The fact that their long-time friends are getting a divorce, because they have become nothing more than 'really great roommates' instead of two people in love, inspires them to embark upon a glamorous evening out in Manhattan, intended to pep things up. Instead, it leads to a case of mistaken identity, sending the pair on a car-chase and wisecrack-laden night they'll never forget.

While the basic premise of a couple, wondering if their marriage has become dull and experiencing a wild ride in the city and coming to the conclusion that being dull isn't so bad after all isn't anything to get excited about, the performances of Carell and Fey are, especially for fans of their respective sitcoms on NBC, "The Office" and "30 Rock".

They're on-screen together practically every moment of the movie, and if the script occasionally focuses on the easy joke, it also gives these two plenty of time to interact with each other. Which is why you should stick around for the credits, when clips of Fey and Carell show how they improvised to make the script even better than it was, while also cracking each other (and the film crew) up.

There are also very good appearances from James Franco, Kristin Wiig and a shirtless Mark Wahlberg.

Here's hoping that "Date Night" earns the Fosters enough of a payday that they can afford to pay a babysitter for another all-nighter. Soon.

"THE RUNAWAYS"
GRADE: ***

There once was an adage in rock and roll that 'Girls don't play guitars.' Not so, as the group The Runaways so aptly proved.

"The Runaways" tells the story of that band, which launched the careers of rockers Joan Jett and Lita Ford, and thrust lead singer Cherie Currie into the world of rock and roll success and excess - all at the tender age of 15.

Kristen Stewart (of "Twilight" fame) stars as Jett, who is told early on in writer-director Floria Sigismundi's film that girls can't rock like the big boys do. Thankfully she didn't listen, and goes on to lay lead guitar for the first all-girl glamrock band, with Curie (Dakota Fanning) belting out the tunes.

The girls, all in their teens are told by their future manager that they are going to be bigger than the Beatles, but that their career "isn't about women's lib - this is women's libido."

The film at times all-too-easily follows the familiar rags-to-riches picture that so many bio-pics paint, and heaps more glory on the Runaways (which in reality had a very short-lived run in the spotlight as a group) than they actually deserve in the annals of rock and roll history.

But that doesn't mean the flick isn't fun.

It captures all the sex, drugs and rock and roll of the 70's glam-rock scene, and the soundtrack is among the best to hit theaters in recent weeks.

"CLASH OF THE TITANS"
GRADE: **

Why, why, why, why?

Campy and silly, the original 1981 "Clash of the Titans" is remembered fondly by this reviewer for its monstrous special effects (by master effects man Ray Harryhausen), the ridiculous casting of Harry Hamlin as Perseus, and the fact that it was seemingly on almost every Saturday in the early days of HBO, sometimes multiple times a day.

But why did it have to be remade? Aren't there any original ideas floating around Hollywood anymore?

In the new "Clash of the Titans", the ultimate struggle for power pits men against kings and kings against gods. But the war between the gods themselves could destroy the world. Born of a god but raised as a man, Perseus (Sam Worthington) is helpless to save his family from Hades (Ralph Fiennes), vengeful god of the underworld. With nothing left to lose, Perseus volunteers to lead a dangerous mission to defeat Hades before he can seize power from Zeus (Liam Neeson) and unleash hell on earth. Leading a daring band of warriors, Perseus sets off on a perilous journey deep into forbidden worlds. Battling unholy demons and fearsome beasts, he will only survive if he can accept his power as a god, defy his fate and create his own destiny.

Director Louis Leterrier delivers the goods in the form of thrills in most of the action and effects sequences, but things can get confusing, there's so much going on. A giant scorpion attack is so poorly edited that the battle rages for nearly two minutes before the audience is clued into the fact that there are two giant scorpions.

Worthington is grim and stone-like as Perseus, almost as if stared into Medusa's eyes on the first day of filming and was rendered into a statue. What Neeson was thinking when he signed on as Zeus is beyond me. There are some decent fight scenes here, but not much else.

The real battle here is the one between your eyes and the Gods of Bore, and it's one you are likely to lose.

"REPO MEN"
GRADE: **

What sounds like an interesting premise for a movie, given last weekend's health care vote, gets lost amid the blood and gore in "Repo Men".

In this futuristic action-thriller, humans have extended and improved their lives through highly sophisticated and expensive mechanical organs created by a company called The Union. The dark side of these medical breakthroughs is that if you don't pay your bill, The Union sends its highly skilled repo men to take back its property - with no concern for your comfort or survival.

Jude Law is Remy, one of the best repo men in the business. When he suffers a cardiac failure on the job, he awakens to find himself fitted with the company's top-of-the-line heart-replacement - a procedure he has almost no shot of paying for on his salary. Unexpectedly, when he awakens post-surgery he realizes that not only is his heart not his, but its no longer in his job either.

When he can't make the payments, The Union sends its toughest enforcer, Remy's former partner Jake (Forest Whitaker), to track him down.

When the hunter becomes the hunted, Remy joins Beth (Alice Braga), another debtor who teaches him how to vanish from the system. And as he and Jake begin a game of chase, one man will become a hero for thousands on the run.

The setting for the movie is interesting - a dark future straight out of 'Blade Runner', where the world-wide conglomerate The Union profits off people with fatal illnesses.

They'll set you up on a payment plan, but the only way they make money is when you fall behind on your payments, and the sky-high interest rates kick in.

Think the credit card business model rolled into health care, and its a scary vision of the future of the medical business in the world.

In an era of health care debate and new credit card regulations it's a timely premise, but Miguel Sapochnik, in his first feature film, quickly loses his hold on the basic premise of the film, and instead opts to fill time with an overabundance of blood and gore, as well as themes and scenes borrowed from movies like 'Logan's Run' and 'Blade Runner'.

Law seems to be sleepwalking through the part, after probably realizing early on in production this one was headed to an early DVD release, though Whitaker at times seems to relish his role.

UNDERGROUND IN WINCHESTER & WOBURN

"New England's heritage is closely identified with liberty. Here the first shots were fired in the war against political tyranny. New England had Abolitionists and stations on the Underground Railroad. Many of its sons fought for the causes of the Union. These things are all well known. They are taught in school," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"What is less known and rarely taught is that the Northern states were originally slave states, too. The North abolished slavery before the South, but nevertheless New Englanders were involved in and grew rich off the slave trade. Africans were enslaved in scattered locations throughout the states.

"Without facing our history, we can't truly understand where we are in the present and where we are going in the future," Rev. Eric Dupee, a Winchester resident and board member of the Multicultural Network (MCN), said in opening the MCN's program "Claiming ALL Our History: Mystic Valley Slave Trade Revealed."

"The program included a screening of the film 'Traces of the Trade - A Story from the Deep North' (abridged version) plus a four-member

GRADE: **

Matt Damon and director Paul Greengrass (The Bourne Supremacy, The Bourne Ultimatum, United 93) re-team for their latest electrifying thriller in Green Zone, a film set in the early days of the Iraqi War, when few on the ground could be trusted and trouble seemingly lurked around every corner.

What makes "Green Zone" more interesting than the average action film is its explanation for the invasion of Iraq in 2003. The story puts forth the premise that the invasion was based not just on bad intelligence but on deliberately manufactured intelligence.

panel discussion.

"The film was produced by Katrina Browne who discovered that her ancestors, the DeWolfs, were the largest slave-trading family in Bristol, R.I. The more historians she talked to, she said in the film, the more she learned that the whole town was dependent on the slave trade. She learned that the DeWolfe historic house museum, admired for its fine architecture and furnishings, was built and furnished from the profits of the slave trade and that it has suppressed that history.

"Traces of the trade may be found throughout New England. Rev. David Pettee, a 1975 graduate of Winchester High School and now a resident of Newton, found traces in his own family history...In fact, all of Winchester's parent communities, Woburn, Medford, and Charlestown had slavery. Anyone interested in a repeat screening of the film may contact the Multicultural Network...."

GREEN SPACE IN STONEHAM

"The town's Board of Selectmen agreed to explore a state grant program that awards municipalities up to $500,000 for adopting 'green' measures to reduce energy consumption," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"During a recent meeting, Finance Board member Stephen Born asked the town officials to consider the state's Green Communities program, which encourages cities and towns to pursue renewable energy sources and slash baseline energy use by 20 percent over five years.

"According to Born, an architect, the Selectmen need not commit entirely to the program at this point, but they would need to establish a study committee.

"I don't think the Stretch

Code would increase the costs of building in that range,' said Born, who estimated the difference would be less than 5 percent. 'Your point is well taken. Ultimately, it's going to cost somebody more money. I think that's something the committee could try to quantify.'"

UNANIMOUS IN TEWKSBURY

"The town will be welcoming its new Superintendent of Schools," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"John O'Connor, the School Committee's selection for the new superintendent to replace Dr. Christine McGrath, has had his contract approved by the School Committee.

"The contract, which was reviewed by both counsel for the School Committee and O'Connor's counsel, is a three-year contract that becomes effective on July 1, 2010. It also includes a School Committee option for an additional year.

"The contract provides for a salary of $164,500. There are no provisions for raises included, as this will be addressed through an evaluation mechanism.

"Sick leave is capped at ninety days. School Committee Chairman Richard O'Neill stated that he felt that the contract eliminates unnecessary perks while providing adequate coverage. He believed that it would result in savings of about $37,000. "We think it saves us a teacher," he said.

"O'Neill noted that O'Connor had informed him that the Town of Beverly had offered to match whatever Tewksbury offered for a contract, but O'Connor confirmed with O'Neill that Tewksbury was his choice. 'He was willing to work us to find common ground,' O'Neill said.

"The contract was approved by a unanimous vote...."

Lutkus ran the 100 meter dash in 12.60 seconds - just 0.28 seconds short of the meet/facility record - while the 4X100 meter relay team posted a time of 48.91 seconds.

Barrett threw the shot put 49 feet 9.0 inches to mark the second time in three meets she achieved a personal best result. Barrett's result currently ranks second in the country by just an inch behind Grand Valley State's Lauren Buresh (49' 10.0").

•SENIOR GOAL-

TENDER COREY SPINALE (WAKEFIELD, MA) was named the Northeast-10 Goalkeeper of the Week on Monday.

Spinale posted a 2-0 record with a 3.33 goals-against and .785 save percentage, including an 11-save performance in a 6-5 thrilling win over Adelphi on Saturday. He did not allow a goal in 30 minutes of action in a 20-5 win over Franklin Pierce.

A two-time All-American, Spinale is 6-1 this season with a 6.06 goals-against and a .619 save percentage, both second in the Northeast-10.

•There are rewards for having a team win back-to-back conference titles and go to the NCAA's both years. The Yale men's hockey team, which just finished its season at 21-10-3 after a loss to Boston College in the Northeast Regional Final, got two players on the All-New England Team, READING NATIVE AND SENIOR TOM DIGNARD and junior Broc Little.

Six forwards, four defensemen and two goalies were selected to this one squad, and the two Yalies were the only ECAC picks.

Dignard, an all-conference defenseman with a 3.71 GPA, had six goals and 21 points this season and was named second-team All-America by collegehockey247.com. He was also first-team All-Ivy this winter and ranks fourth among Division I blueliners and No. 1 in the ECAC with .93 points per game.

He has 19 career goals, which is fourth on the school charts for defensemen, while his 76 career points are fourth. Dignard made the 2010 NCAA Northeast Regional All-Tournament Team.

Earth From S-1

Talbot's Outlet and Home Goods, and new restaurants like Sarku Japan and Panera Bread.

"I always say the mall and everything in it is near and dear to my heart," she said.

The Earth Day event started at the old Woburn High as an "environmentally-themed day," and then moved to the Woburn Mall 13 years ago. At the mall, the Earth Day festivities have grown to a "community day" and beyond, with participation not limited to Woburn but the surrounding cities and towns, as well. In some years, contributors have come from as far away as New Hampshire.

"It's really expanded," said Medeiros. "There are things for everyone to enjoy."

Some of the more consistent informational contributors over the years have been the Woburn Conservation Commission, the Woburn Engineering Dept., the Woburn Redevelopment Authority, Social Capital Inc., and the Woburn Historical Society.

About six years ago, the Woburn Residents Environmental Network (WREN) joined the Earth Day team and is now one of the sponsors of the event. WREN is a grassroots, environmentally-conscious group of residents that according to its website "promote(s) environmental awareness, support community conservation activities, and implement educational programs that develop a sense of environmental stewardship."

One thing that will be missing this year is the popular Community Gardens booth. The gardens off Lexington Street have become, in fact, so popular that no more space is available.

"There's a real desire for people who might live in an apartment or a condo to have their own garden," said Medeiros.

Commercial exhibitors this year include Boston Sports

EARTH DAY ENTERTAINMENT - That's retiring Woburn Redevelopment Authority Executive Director Don Borchelt (right) jamming away at a recent Earth Day.

Club, Re-Max Leading Edge, Danvers Bank, Tierney Chiropractic, Innitout Photo with Woburn resident Gerry Kehoe, Celtic Fire Productions, and Joe Brown Photography.

"Having Earth Day at the mall has opened it up to a lot more people, and to people from outside of Woburn," said Lori Medeiros. "People who are coming by CVS to pick up a bottle of shampoo can stop by the booths and get some information about the environment."

For children, there is always a wide range of activities, including face-painting, balloon sculptures and the always-popular JuJu the Clown, who will be appearing from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

There are also raffles and environmentally-themed prizes that will be awarded throughout the event, which has become an Earth Day party to which the entire community is invited.

Academy of Notre Dame inducts locals into the National Honor Society

TYNGSBORO - Local juniors at the Academy of Notre Dame, Tyngsboro, were recently inducted into the National Honor Society (NHS) in an evening ceremony. To qualify for consideration, students must meet, or exceed, the standards set by the National Council of the NHS which include maintaining a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (Academy students achieved at least a 3.3) and meeting certain standards in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

Students were involved in many activities throughout the year, with an emphasis upon service and what they can do to help not only the Academy of Notre Dame community, but also surrounding communities. They hosted a blanket collection for local homeless shelters; sponsored a Giving Tree to benefit Si Se Puede in Lawrence, MA, an organization that helps support low-income families; sponsored two blood drives; ran the Academy's annual Used Book Sale; and helped with the Phone-a-Thon. In addition to these seasonal activities, National Honor Society students provide free, year-round daily tutoring for high school and middle school students at the Academy.

This year's inductees include:

Sarah Burch of Tewksbury

Kara Silva of Reading

Hannah Yore of Tewksbury

The Academy of Notre Dame is a Catholic, private school comprised of a college preparatory high school for young women and a co-educational K1 - 8 school. The school is sponsored by the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur and is based on the educational philosophy of their foundress, St. Julie Billiart. The Academy welcomes students of all faiths. It has a culturally diverse population comprised of students from approximately forty cities and towns throughout Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Medical travel tips for senior citizens

Ask anyone what they envision doing most in their retirement, and chances are travel will be at the top of their list. For those who have already retired, traveling is a luxury many no doubt look forward to.

Seniors about to take to the road, however, should consider the following tips before heading off to parts unknown.

* Pack medications in your carry-on. Prescription medications should be packed in your carry-on whenever traveling to prevent losing vital medications should your checked bags be lost during your travels.

* Consult with your physician and create a list of past and current conditions and any medications. In the unfortunate event you lose any of your medication or fall ill during your travels, a list of all current and past conditions and medications can help the physician who will be treating you better understand you and your medical history. Be sure to inform any traveling companions about this list, and keep it on you at all times when traveling.

* Figure out time zones and a medication schedule ahead of time. When traveling to different time zones, it can be difficult to adhere to a medication schedule. Before leaving, work out a new schedule that takes into account the different time zones you will be visiting during your travels.

* Be sure your vaccinations are up to date. Certain countries mandate your vaccinations are up to date before you can enter the country, and some require vaccinations be administered as early as 6 weeks before your visit. Be sure all vaccinations are updated in adherence to the guidelines of any country you will be visiting.

* Remain hydrated. Planes often have dry air, which can cause dehydration and muscle aches. So be sure to drink plenty of water to guard against dehydration.

Did You Know?

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), half of the world's population is at risk of malaria. Though it might be common for those in the Western hemisphere to assume malaria is not a major world health issue, an estimated 243 million malaria cases occurred in 2008. That same year, 863,000 people lost their lives to malaria. An overwhelming majority of those deaths, 89 percent, occurred in Africa. While malaria continues to be a health concern, particularly in Africa, the good news is that the world is beginning to realize the gravity of the problem. Whereas international funding commitments for malaria control were roughly $300 million as recently as 2003, by 2009 those commitments had risen to $1.7 billion. Much of that increase is due to the emergence of the Global Fund and increased commitments by the U.S. President's Malaria Initiative, the World Bank and a handful of other agencies. Those increased commitments have helped African households significantly when it comes to fighting malaria. For example, while just 17 percent of African households owned at least one insecticide-treated net (ITN) in 2006, that figure had nearly doubled to 31 percent by 2008. Perhaps most beneficial, more children under the age of 5 in Africa (24 percent) are using ITNs, greatly reducing their risk of malaria. To learn more about malaria, visit the WHO Web site at www.who.int.

Yoga moms have pushed soccer moms to the sidelines

Many women are trading in their team jerseys for yoga mats. The busy soccer mom has transformed into the calm and ethereal yoga mom who is more interested in a stress-free life than racing around to sports practices.

For a long time the stereotypical image of a mom was a minivan-driving, white, 40-something picking up Timmy from sports practice and Jenny from cheerleading. Her fast-paced lifestyle had her racing between kids' engagements to home to other social obligations in a harried, time-pressed manner.

But today you're more likely to see mom practicing her asanas instead of toting clipboards and team snacks. She's scooting around in her Toyota Prius instead of the Dodge Caravan and is more about living in the moment than over-programming children with music lessons and enrichment classes.

Today's moms are more free-spirited and learn-as-you-go types. They don't strive for the same goals as their mothers before them. Instead of keeping up with the Joneses and striving for perfection, the Yoga Mom or Eco Mom is customizing her life the way she sees fit.

So what else is different about women of the Yoga Mom mind set? A lot actually. Today's moms live further from their Baby Boomer parents, and aren't as influenced by their go-getter attitudes. As such, Eco Moms are more community-based and interested in being everyone's friends. That's why you're more likely to find Yoga Moms blogging, heading grassroots campaigns and seeking new friends on social networking sites. Yoga moms are more about spreading the word on ways to improve the community and planet than receiving the gossip on how to get ahead or the best recipe to bring to the office potluck.

Many Yoga moms saw their own mothers struggle with the work-family balance with little success. New moms are more about embracing what's real and meaningful than being caught up in the rat race.

That isn't to say today's moms are sitting on the couch catching up with daytime programming. They are certainly educated, successful women. They're simply putting their needs on par with the needs of their family and feeling better about themselves in the process.

Diagnosed with fibroids? Get the facts

Uterine fibroid tumors are commonly found in women in their 30s and 40s. Although they are usually benign (not cancerous), and generally cause no symptoms, some fibroids can be troublesome for women.

Fibroids are solid, fibrous tumors that are found inside the uterus. These masses can form in a number of places and are classified according to their location.

* Intramural: Round fibroids inside of the uterine wall that can cause the uterus to enlarge as it grows.

* Submucous: Fibroids that occur just below the lining of the uterus. They can cause menstrual problems and pain as they grow and move around in the pelvic area.

* Subserous: These fibroids grow on the outer wall of the uterus and generally cause no symptoms unless they interfere with other pelvic organs.

* Interligamentous: Fibroids that grow sideways between the ligaments that encompass the abdominal region. These can be very difficult to remove because of their close proximity to other organs.

* Parasitic: A fibroid that attaches to another organ.

Fibroids are generally discovered during routine gynecological exams. A physician will feel a mass on occasion and order a follow-up ultrasound to determine what is going on internally. Many times women do not even know they have fibroids until a doctor discovers them.

While fibroids can be singular or minute in size, they generally grow in bunches and may get to be quite large. Fibroids the size of grapefruits have been removed, and the largest fibroid ever detected weighed over 100 pounds.

Although most fibroids do not cause symptoms, about a quarter of women with the condition report abnormal bleeding, pain and enlargement of the uterus. Backaches may also occur if the fibroid extends toward the backbone.

Treatment for fibroids is generally not done unless the fibroids cause severe pain or unusual bleeding. In that case, surgery to remove the tumors (myomectomy) or the uterus itself (hysterectomy) is the course of treatment. In most cases, however, fibroids will grow back even after being removed. The only permanent way for a woman to rid herself of fibroids is the eventual hysterectomy. This should be considered if fibroids are continually troublesome and after a woman has completed her family, as a hysterectomy eliminates the possibility of future conception.

For more information on uterine fibroids, consult with your gynecologist or family practitioner.

Helping a parent after the loss of a spouse

Few children, even adult children, are ever prepared enough to help their parent deal with the loss of a spouse. In addition to coping with their own loss of a parent, many adults must find a way to help a parent who just lost the love of their life.

While it is never easy helping a parent in such a situation, there are ways to help a parent cope with such a significant loss.

* Be mindful of your parent's health. Sadly, a common side effect of losing a spouse is showing less interest in your own health. Kids must make sure their parent continues to eat regularly. This can be done in a number of ways. Invite your parent over for dinner a couple of nights a week, and go over to your parent's home for dinner a couple of additional nights. If you have siblings, share this responsibility. Also, you can cook for your parent just like he or she used to cook for you.

While physical health is important, be sure your parent maintains his or her mental health as well. Depression is common among those who have lost a loved one, so ask them about their feelings and if they're getting enough sleep. If adult children have their own kids, bring the grandkids over whenever possible. Nothing puts a bigger smile on a grandparent's face than the sight of his or her grandchildren.

* Allow them some space to be themselves. While you might want to stay as close as possible to your parent, you also need to give them some space to be themselves. Your parent just lost his or her spouse, and it's perfectly natural for him or her to want some time alone. Afford them this opportunity, but be mindful to check in with them regularly and not allow them to spend too much time alone.

* Engage your parent as much as possible. When both your parents were still alive, you might not have invited them along to the movies or when taking your own kids to a sporting event. However, engage them in such activities now, as they might not get a chance to do such things otherwise.

Another way to engage parents is to talk to them about current events or even books you have been reading. Doing so will help them stay mentally sharp, and you will no doubt benefit as well from their point of view.

* Take a trip with your parent. Initially, your parent might be reluctant to travel, especially if he or she had travel plans or dreams with his or her spouse. However, over time your parent will no doubt enjoy the prospect of traveling with the family, and it can be an enjoyable experience for everyone involved.

room. To the left of the central stairway is a den, which would be an ideal location for the family computer, a home entertainment center, or a home office.

Bedrooms and a large bonus room are upstairs. The Adkins owners suite has a walk-in closet and private bathroom. Amenities include a glass-enclosed soaking tub with shower, double vanity, and built-in bench. Pocket doors provide privacy when needed.

Two linen closets nestle into alcoves in the hallway, close to a bathroom that will be shared by the people who live in the other two bedrooms. This bathroom has a combined tub and shower.

The Adkins bonus room has a cross-shaped central space with a 9-foot ceiling that slopes down toward the corners. Dormer windows on two sides could be outfitted with cozy window seats.

The Adkins Rustic meets modern in compact Adkins

Its covered porch and shutters give the compact Adkins the look of a traditional farm-style home, but the interior is entirely up to date. Kitchen, dining room and living room flow together, creating a feeling of openness, with nine-foot ceilings adding to the sense of volume.

Standing at the sink, you face out across a large patio, accessed through sliding glass doors in the dining room window bay. A large work island increases available counter space, and laundry appliances are mere steps away, in a utility room with cabinets over the appliances. The small powder room is handy to any area of the main floor, and equally close to the garage.

A gas fireplace serves as a focal point in the living room. An arched opening there sets the boundary between that and the dining

Decorative options for driveways

Many homeowners overlook the design impact that a driveway can have on their home. An unsightly driveway can impact curb appeal, but a decorative one can enhance the look of the property and home.

For homeowners looking to either lay a new driveway in their brand-new home or replace an old driveway to give the exterior of their house a new look, the following materials are among the many that can now be used for the purpose of driveways.

* Asphalt: Asphalt driveways are the most common, thanks in large part to their cost effectiveness and minimal maintenance requirements. Due to that popularity, contractors can easily install an asphalt driveway.

A mixture of tar, gravel and concrete, asphalt attracts heat, making it very hot in warmer months, something parents of young children who frequently play outdoors might want to think about. Another disadvantage to asphalt driveways is that they're oil-based and as a result flexible, making them vulnerable to cracking.

* Concrete: Concrete is another very popular choice for driveways, and one that allows for more creativity than asphalt. Whereas asphalt driveways are limited to a blue or black hue, concrete driveways can be customized to almost any color you prefer. In addition, concrete driveways can feature stenciled designs, essentially making your driveway similar to an artist's canvas, albeit one that will require frequent sealing.
